FELL DEAD IN RIVER.

Body of J. H. Morey Found in Susquehanna Near Tioga Center

GOING HOME FROM TOWANDA.

Dead Body of Aged Man Was Resting in Shallow Water When Found—Death Was Probably Due to Appoplexy.

James H. Morey 74 years of age and considered one of the wealthiest men in the town of Nichols, was found dead in the Susquehanna river at Tioga Center at an early hour Wednesday morning. The body was lying face downward in about three inches of water, and at first it was thought he had fallen into the river and drowned. An autopsy revealed the fact that there was no water in the lungs and that death was due to appoplexy. His hat was on his head, and he clutched firmly in right hand the cane which was his custom to carry. It is believed that he was dead before he struck the water.

Tuesday Mr. Morey was in Towanda, and while on his way to his home at Lounsbury which is about half way between Nichols and Owego, stopped in Waverly for a short time. While there he was in conversation with Dr. Griswold and at that time complained of not feeling well. He left Waverly on Erie train No. 24, for Tioga Center, from where he expected to cross the river to his home.

When the train arrived at Tioga Center Mr. Morey alighted from the side of the train opposite the station and in this way missd Ray Wheeler, who had crossed the river in a boat for the purpose of conveying Mr. Morey to his home. Wheeler returned to the river and recrossed to Lounsbury.

Early Wednesday morning the body of Mr. Morey was found at the point where Wheeler had landed his boat, lying face downward in about three inches of water. He had been dead for some time.

It is supposed that Mr. Morey went to the river after Wheeler had left and that while standing close to the water suffered a stroke of appoplexy and fell into the river.

The dead man was a retired farmer, and was estimated to be worth in the neighborhood of $500,000. At the time of his death he carried a large amount of money and this was all found on his person. He was very well and favorably known in Towanda.

He was the last of his family, being survived only by his wife. Prof. Russell of the S. C. I., of Towanda, is a distant relative of the deceased. The funeral was held at the Morey home at Lounsbury Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and interment was made in the Lounsbury cemetery.

FISH AND GAME LAWS.

Gentle Reminder of the Open Season for Game Fowl.

Now that the state has taken active precautions to protect the game in this vicinity by appointing special wardens, some extracts from the game and fish laws will prove interesting to the sportsmen. The seasons are as follows:

Woodcock, from Oct. 1 to Dec. 1.
Pheasant, from Oct. 1 to Dec. 1.
Quail, from Nov. 1 to Dec. 1.
Wild Turkey, Oct. 15 to Dec. 1.
Rabbits, Oct. 15 to Dec. 1.
Deer, Nov. 15 to Dec. 1.

It will be noticed that all seasons commence somewhat later than last year and close out on Dec. 1, so that it will be practically impossible to hunt any game after that date.

It is also prohibited to hunt game at night and the usual fine of from $10 to $100 and imprisonment is the penalty for violation of this law.

It is also unlawful to fish with seines or other devices for game fish.

It is lawful, however, to kill carp, suckers, mullets and eels in public waters containing trout, by means of a gig or spear having a space of not less than a half inch between the prongs, from May 1 to Oct. 31; but the use of the gig is prohibited at all times for catching fish other than those mentioned above.

Emery Wheel Bursts.

By the breaking of an emery wheel on which he was working a few days ago C. D. Clark of Wellsboro, received serious and painful injuries. Mr. Clark was working in a saw mill and when the wheel burst he was unable to save himself from injury. Besides bad lacerations of the face his jaw was broken in two places.

Fishing in Maine.

Former Lieutenant Governor W. T. Davies and Edward Carter, Jr., of Towanda, and O. D. Kinney of Athens, constitute a trio of Bradford county anglers who are spending two weeks in Maine whipping streams that still contain some trout worth catching.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

SAD END OF A PLEASURE DRIVE

Thrown From Surrey Drawn by Frightened Horses After Thrilling Run of Nearly Two Miles on Towanda Hill Roads.

Mrs. Ezra L. Decker sustained the fracture of both of her arms and was otherwise seriously injured in a runaway accident on the Towanda hill roads Thursday afternoon. That she was not instantly killed is truly a miracle.

Mrs. Decker has been a great sufferer with rheumatism, and for a long time has been practically helpless. Her son, Charles Decker, wife and little daughter of Minnesota, who have been spending a few weeks in Towanda, arranged a pleasure drive for Thursday, and during the morning started out in a surrey drawn by two horses. Mr. Decker and his little daughter occupied the front seat while his wife and his mother were in the rear seat.

They drove out in the hill district, and shortly after 1 o'clock, stopped near the old Bowman tavern in Monroe township for a lunch in the shade of a tree. The party alighted from the surrey with the exception of Mrs. Decker who decided to remain in her seat, it being difficult for her to get in and out of the surrey. The lunch had just been spread when the horses took fright, and with a spring started on their mad run. Mr. Decker made an effort to get to the animals but from where he was it was impossible to reach the bits. He was knocked down by the rear wheel of the surrey as the team dashed away.

Along the road down the hill past the Gregg school house the horses galloped at a terrific pace. At the turn from the Gregg road onto the Plank road, the surrey upset, turning on its end, throwing Mrs. Decker to the ground with great force. The horses broke loose from the surrey and run to Martin Bowen's where they were stopped. Charles Mace and others living nearby hurried to the scene, and the injured lady was brought to her home in Towanda by Mr. Mace.

Dr. T. Ben Johnson was summoned and assited by his father, Dr. T. B. Johnson, made a thorough examination of her injuries. They found both bones in the left arm broken above the wrist, and the larger bone in the right forearm and two small bones in the right wrist also broken. Her face was badly bruised and scratched and she was more or less injured about the body.

To ride nearly two miles over a rough road behind two frightened horses and be thrown from a carriage which was reduced to kindling wood, is an experience which but few pass through and live to tell of. That Mrs. Decker escaped instant death, is indeed a wonder.

FATALLY INJURED BY BULL.

Charles Brown Dies in Packer Hospital After Being Trampled Upon.

George W. Brown of Waverly died Thursday afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock at the Robert Packer hospital at Sayre, from injuries received by being attacked by a bull at the Baldwin farm on the Susquehanna river below Athens Wednesday afternoon.

Brown was employed at the Baldwin farm during the harvesting season, and had been directed to carry a pail of water to a three years old Holstein bull that was tied to a stake, and fastened by a ring in his nose. Brown has been accustomed to handling cattle all his life, and instead of carrying the water to the bull he unfastened him, and started to lead him by the ring in his nose to a watering trough. The bull struck him a powerful blow with his head, knocking him down and then trampled him. Before assistance came he was badly injured. He was taken to the Packer hospital where it was found that his shoulder was broken, and several ribs were fractured, and serious internal injuries had been sustained.

Mr. Brown had lived in Waverly since last Spring, having moved there from Tozer's bridge. He was 49 years of age, and is survived by his wife and eight children.

New Signal Device on Central.

A new signal device for the warning of engineers is shortly to be tried on the Pennsylvania division of the New York Central. The new signal consists of two incandescent lights arranged on the right hand side of the engineer's cab. They are operated by electricity from the signal towers. When the engine passes a certain point the cab lights show either safe or danger signals as the operator elects. Being inside, the storm, fogs, etc., do not interfere with the vision of the driver and they will be a great element of safety if practicable.

A DARING ROBBERY

ROBBER QUICKLY CAPTURED.

Frank McGuire of Scranton, Taken Into Custody Few Minutes After Perpetrating Job—Plunder Found On Him.

One of the most daring robberies ever perpetrated in Towanda, took place about 11 o'clock Tuesday night. Within half an hour after the robbery, the man who is believed to have committed the crime was safe behind the bars in the borough lockup.

Strange as it may seem, Harry Ellis of Durell, the victim, did not know he had been touched until made aware of the fact by Chief Miller. He was a very surprised young man on going through his pockets and finding his watch, pocketbook and about $15 missing. The man under arrest charged with the robbery and on whose person the telltale watch, and a sum of money was found, gives the name of Frank McGuire of 445 Fourth street, Sixth ward, Scranton.

The Robbery.

Harry Ellis, a sedate young farmer from Durell, came to Towanda Tuesday morning to see the sights, and have a little fun. In his jeans he had about $22 and a watch. He made the rounds of several places, spent money freely, and was having a nice pleasant time. About 10:30 while sightseeing in the First ward, he made the acquaintance of McGuire, a stranger in town but willing to be a good fellow. Ellis bought McGuire several cocktails and a few high balls. Both were happy.

McGuire said he needed a little exercise, and invited Ellis out to have a walk with him. They went. Half an hour later McGuire returned. Ellis was conspicous by his absence. McGuire while broke a few minutes before, had plenty of coin of the realm after taking the walk with Ellis.

A man who saw him start out with Ellis suspected that he had robbed his new found friend, and at once notified Chief Miller. With only a faint description of McGuire, the chief started out. As he stepped on to Main street at the corner of Pine he noticed a man who answered the description of McGuire, in front of the Zaharis candy store where the light shown very brightly. A few minutes later the suspect was under arrest accused by the Chief of having shoved some one from the sidewalk. At the lockup the prisoner was searched and in his pockets was found $3 and a watch. He was placed in a cell to await further developments.

Didn't Know He Had Been Robbed.

Just as Chief Miller stepped down from the steps leading to the borough building a man who answered the description of the one who was reported to have been robbed, brushed by. He was halted by the chief who asked:

"Haven't you been robbed?" "Guess not" was the reply.

"Where is your watch?" inquired the chief. After a search in the watch pocket the man looked up startled like and said "gone."

"Where is your pocket book?" then asked the officer. There was another search through the pockets after which the still more startled man looked up and again said, "gone."

He was shown the watch taken from the prisoner and he exclaimed "that's my watch! Where did you get it?" Then he realized for the first time that he had been robbed of all his earthly possessions.

Accompanied by Constable Hollon and T. E. Wood with two lanterns, Chief Miller went to the First ward and after a short search found the pocketbook where it had been thrown by McGuire after he had robbed Ellis. Ellis was present when the pocketbook was found and readily recognized it as his own. Ellis was wearing a white hat when found by the police, and when he came to town he was wearing a black felt hat. An investigation revealed the fact that McGuire had given Ellis the white hat before starting out for the walk.

The robbery was one of the most daring ever attempted in Towanda and the arrest and gathering of enough evidence to send McGuire to the penitentiary within half an hour after the commission of the crime, was indeed a clever piece of police work.

Mansfield Normal Quarterly.

The July number of the Mansfield Normal School Quarterly, which is now being circulated among the many alumni in this region, is a bright little paper, filled principally with accounts of the scenes and incidents in connection with the annual commencement exercises in June. It also contains brief resumes of the year's work in various departments, including that of athletics and a few personal quips at the expense of students.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN

Augustus Duruz and Sister Margaret Seriously Injured.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT AT GILLETT

Were Driving Over Northern Central Tracks When Run Down By a Freight Train—Victims well Known in This Vicinity.

Augustus Duruz, a former resident of Burlington township, and his sister Miss Margaret Duruz, who for a number of years lived in Towanda, met with a terrible accident in Gillett, South Creek township at 7:30 o'clock Friday morning. The wagon in which they were riding was struck by a freight train at the Dewey crossing and Miss Duruz sustained injures which it is feared will prove fatal.

Story of the Accident.

Mr. Duruz, who lives on a farm on East Hill, was in the habit of making morning trips to the creamery at Gillett with milk. Friday morning his sister, Margaret, who had been spending a few days at the farm, was returning with him to her home at Gillett.

Just how they came to drive in front of the freight train is not known. The team had crossed the track but the wagon was struck squarely, vehicle and occupants being thrown 40 or 50 feet from the crossing.

Witnessess of the accident at once rushed to the assistance of the injured ones. Both were unconscious They were taken to Miss Duruz' home in the village where Dr. Fiersted attended them

Miss Duruz condition is critical. Her scalp is badly torn and it is feared that the scull is fractured. One arm and shoulder were broken and the body was literally covered with bruises. Mr. Duruz was not so badly hurt, but has many bruises which will incapacitate him for some weeks to come.

The train that figured in the accident was the last section of Northern Central fast freight No. 89. The crossing is in the rear of the Dewey general store.

Well Known in this Vicinity.

Both victims of the accident are well known in this vicinity, being children of the late Thomas Duruz, who for many years lived on a farm on Plank Road street. Augustus Duruz lived on a farm in Burlington township until moving to East Hill, near Gillett. Miss Margaret Duruz, and her sister, the late Miss Louise Duruz lived on Railroad street in Towanda, occupying the house now owned and occupied by Charles M. Hall, Esq., for a number of years until the death of Louise when Margaret went to Gillett to reside.

TERRIBLE DROUGHT.

DUST IS DEEP IN THE ROADS

Farmers Are Praying for Showers and Downpours of the Liquid Drops Which Will Relieve the Threatening Situation.

From nearly every section of Bradford county comes the hue and cry that a dreadful drought is being experienced, that the crops are burning up in the sun. For more than two weeks there has not been a shower of any consequence, so now as the farmer and his family gather around the table and before retiring at night in their prayers they include the asking of the Almighty for a good hard rain, the kind that soaks in.

Unless rain is soon coming, they state, the crops of all kinds will suffer irreparable loss. Corn is about the only crop that is not dried up. Buckwheat is suffering at present and unless a shower blesses many districts in a few days that crop, too, will suffer materially. The drought extends as far as Canton on the West. The farms in that vicinity show the effects of the prolonged spell of dryness.

Grass along the roadway is covered with a thick coat of dust. Many farmers state that rains have occurred all around them, but none of it has touched in their own localities to have the desired effect.

Negroes Shun Tunkhannock.

Tunkhanonck is the only town in this part of the state without a negro resident. At different time since the war negroes have located there, only to remain a little while. They have all been well treated, but they do not remain in town and it is rarely one is seen there.

SUICIDE AT WARREN.

NO KNOWN CAUSE FOR ACT.

Well Known and Prominent Citizen of Warren Township Died Alone Monday Afternoon From Effect of Poisonous Draught.

David C. Newman, one of the best known and most prominent citizens of Warren township, was found dead in his room at his home about one and one half miles from Warren Center, shortly after noon Monday. A half drained bottle of laudanum by the side of his bed told the story of his death.

He had been about the farm as usual on Monday and at 11 o'clock went to his room to lie down until dinner time. When called there was no response and after a time his son went up-stairs and found the lifeless body of his father reclining on the bed. A doctor was summoned, but life had become extinct. The coroner was notified and an inquest will be held. No reason is advanced by any of the relatives or friends for the man's rash act.

David C. Newman was born in Warren township, Oct. 23, 1853, the son of the late Henry T. and Martha A. Newman. He was reared on his father's farm and when reaching young manhood started in farming for himself, at the time of his death owning and cultivating a fine farm of 150 acres. He was honored by his neighbors and friends, and had held many offices in the township, at the time of his death being a school director. His wife died several years ago. The following children survive: Charles Newman of Wyalusing, Noah Newman of Binghamton, William Newman at home, and Mrs. P. H. Galalgher of Massachusetts.

Runaway at Waverly.

While Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Bostwick and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bostwick were returning to Waverly from the funeral of the late Shubal Cotton, at Vawter, on Thursday, the team which Cyrus Bostwick was driving, became frightened at a freight train on the D., L. and W. tracks, near the wheel foundry, in Waverly, and started to run away. Mr. Bostwick attempted to turn them when the surrey was overturned and the whole party was dragged for some distance. Mrs. Cyrus Bostwick sustained a compound fracture of her right forearm and was otherwise seriously bruised. The other members of the party sustained painful bruises. The wagon was badly wrecked. The horses were caught and were not injured.

Girls Come to Grief.

Sarah Johnson of Monroeton who is alleged to be a girl of ill repute and who was ordered out of Waverly this week arrived in Sayre Thursday night and in company with a pretty little English girl and another Monroeton girl acted in a manner to offend public decency on the Sayre streets. Complaint was made to the police and when these girls appeared on the streets again on Friday they were ordered out of town by Chief Walsh. They claimed to be living in the Cove. The little English girl says she is 18 but does not look to be more than 16 and her downfall is a tragedy. She claims to have come here from Towanda. The trio were en route for Athens when last seen.—Sayre Times-Record.

Amalgamation Not Yet.

Waverly ministers have not yet accepted the amalgamation of the blacks and whites as the one and only remedy for the race question which is at present agitating the South, for they refused on Saturday to marry a colored man and white woman. The strangely mated couple went from Wyalusing, their own town, to Waverly in the hopes of being made man and wife, but were sadly disappointed when they could not find anyone who would tie the knot. At last reports they were still looking for some one with the authority who would make them forever happy.

Good Day's Work.

Market Gardener Avery, of Tunkhannock, Wyoming county, dug, pulled, picked and prepared and shipped the following vegetables from his garden on Monday: Seventy bushels of potatoes, 3 barrels cabbage, 1 barrel carrots, 3 bushels wax beans, 2 bushels telephone pears, 100 summer squashes, and 50 heads lettuce. He has offered a bounty of 25 cents each for all woodchucks caught or killed on the premises occupied by his gardens. Nine have been captured in the vicinity of his cabbage fields.

QUICKLY CAPTURED.

Two Young Horse Thieves Come to Grief in Canton Township.

WERE ARRESTED IN JIG TIME.

Cola Elliott of Gleason, and Ernest Hall of Canton, Stole Horse and Wagon But Had Use of Outfit Only Forty-Five Minutes.

Cola Elliott, colored, of Gleason, a little village about four miles West of Canton, and Ernest Hall of Canton, stole a horse and wagon of Newell Smith, a farmer of Canton township, Friday afternoon, and 45 minutes later they were in the clutches of C. A. Ennis, police chief of Canton borough. The rural telephones played an important part in the capture of the two men.

Elliott and Hall are young fellows who have been working on the farms in Canton township during the Summer months. Friday afternoon they visited the farm of Newell Smith at Gleason, and finding no one about unhitched a horse which was standing under a shed, jumped into the wagon to which the animal was harnessed, and drove away at top speed. Mr. Newell discovered his loss a few minutes later and telephoned to Officer Ennis at Canton.

Ennis at once set out after the thieves, and was soon hot on their trail. By using the rural telephones, he located the men, and the stolen outfit and just 45 minutes after he had been notified by Newell the thieves were under arrest and the stolen outfit was being returned to the owner. George Lampkin, a farmer living near Troy, captured the two men, having been notified by 'phone and kept them prisoners on his farm until the arrival of Officer Ennis. The thieves were making for Elmira, where they had hoped to find a purchaser for the horse and wagon after which they intended to go West.

At a hearing Friday night before Emmerson Cleveland, justice of the peace at Canton, they were held to await the action of the grand jury, and were committed to the county jail without bail. Officer Ennis arrived in Towanda with the two prisoners Saturday evening, and they are now under the care of Sheriff Griffin.

To Separate Postage Stamps.

It is often desired to separate postage stamps that are stuck together without destroying the gum. This can be done by dipping the stamps in water for a few seconds only, shaking off the excess of water and heating it with a match as much as possible without burning. The heat expands the water between the stamps and separates them, so that they can be easily pulled apart, and are ready for use.

Lehigh County Woman Must Not Marry Again if She Wishes to Benefit By Husband's Will — Child Scalded to Death.

The first new $10 gold certificate that came to Allentown containing the portrait of Michael Hillegass, first treasurer of the United States, was sent to his great-great-grandson, former assistant fire chief Henry Hilegass.

Bound for a vacation trip in the country, Edward Touhill, aged 10 years, of West Pittston, was struck by a Delaware and Hudson train on a crossing at DuPont, Tuesday and instantly killed Mrs. Mary Flannery and her son, who were riding with Touhill in a farm wagon, escaped with slight injuries.

Deputy Prothonotary Reitz of Northumberland county, is not required by law to prepare the papers of applicants for naturalization, and he is not going to do it any more as an accommodation. He has publicly announced that hereafter any one taking out naturalization papers will either have to be able to prepare them themselves or have the services of an attorney.

Henry Rogotsky of Midvale, near Wilkes-Barre, talks in his sleep. During the night his wife heard him murmur, "Mary, I love you." Excited and jealous, for Mary is the name of a neighbor, in whose house he was on Thursday, she awakened him, scolded him and later had him arrested for disorderly conduct Alderman Carkhuff found nothing in the evidence to show that the declaration was anything more than a dream. He made Henry pay half the costs for dreaming and his wife the other half for being jealous and sent them home.

Burgess Hiram Coller of Pottstown, has begun a crusade against profanity on the streets and on Saturday night fined an offender $10.

Mary Wolfe, a two years old daughter of C. J. G. H. Wolfe of Freport Mills, Lebanon county, on Monday fell into a bucket of boiling water standing on the porch and was scalded to death.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady McCullough of near Newville, Cumberland county, are rejoicing over the return of their son J. A., who disappeared in September, 1905, and whom they had mourned for dead. He had been working in Missouri.

Tearing loose from the grasp of a man who attempted to prevent her from crossing the Reading railroad tracks at South Bethlehem on Monday in front of an approaching train, Miss Mary Volz, aged 16 years and the belle of the local foreign colony, was struck and instantly killed. She thought the man intended to do her harm.

On condition that she does not marry again, Oscar Hinkel of Emaus, Lehigh county, bequeaths in his will his entire estate estate, valued at $15,000 to his wife, but if she fails to remain single she is to receive only $600 and their children the balance.

A band of gypsies near Franklinville, Huntingdon county, buried one of their tribe in the woods after slaying a lamb and burying it beside the body of the dead gypsy. The grave was covered with pottery and vases. The dead man was George Spankle, born in Egypt. He died of pneumonia.

Monument to a Minister.

As a result of efforts put forth by Homer Green, Esq., Honesdale is to have an important new industry—a paper manufacturing plant. The product will be handled through offices in Scranton and New York. Five acres of ground, located near the Erie station in East Honesdale, have been purchased, and the necessary buildings will be erected as soon as possible.

A rabbid dog near Coatesville bit its master, George Worrall, and his six years old daughter and then ran to the Sweeney farm, near by, and bit ten hogs, a cow, six geese and three dogs. The animals were all killed except the geese, which will be watched to see whether they will develop rabies. Mr. Worrall and little daughter have entered a Pasteur institute at Phoenixville, for treatment.

A remarkable reunion took place in Bloomsburg Monday, when Captain William H. Thurston of Sunbury, who is visiting his son, Roscoe C. Thurston, city editor of The Bloomsburg Daily, met Charles E. Savage of that town, whom he had not seen since the days of the Civil war, when Savage was a member of Ricketts' famous Battery F, First Pennsylvania Light Artillery. When they met on Main street Monday Mr. Savage failed to recognize the aged gentleman, who took him by the hand, his former first lieutenant, but Captain Thurston recognized Savage at once, although he hadn't seen him since he was 14 years old.

Professor B. F. Kelley, the convicted principal of the Centralia-Conyngham schools, who is serving a nine-months' term in the Columbia county jail for bribery has a poor opinion of the newspapers. He complained in an interview with a reporter some time since that the newspapers were the cause of his troubles. He said that they inflamed the minds of the people against him, thus greatly injuring his cause. Kelley spends his time reading and smoking.

The descendants of the Rev. Elijah Peck, the pioneer Baptist preacher in Northeastern Pennsylvania, are about to erect a handsome monument to his memory in the historic Mount Pleasant cemetery, Wayne county. Rev. Elijah Peck was born in Connecticut in 1767. He moved to Mt. Pleasant in 1789 and was pastor of the Baptist church, which he founded there, from 1803 until 1835, when he died. He had 13 children, and his descendants will hold a reunion at Mt. Pleasant in the latter part of August, by which time it is expected that the monument will be in place.

Joseph Zina of the vicinity of Shamokin, saved his life on Monday morning by losing his nose, upper lip and several teeth. While running through the bushes on the mountain side he struck a wire hidden in the leaves and his nose and upper lip were cut off, while several teeth were knocked out. It was afterwards discovered that if the wire had not stopped his progress he would have plunged into a mine hole in the earth 175 feet deep.

Jacob Bankus, employed as track inspector for the Pennsylvania railroad between East Bloomsburg and Espy, has been on duty for 22 years, with only a few days off, and has walked over 100,000 miles. Harry Crawford, a negro of Parkersburg, Chester county, dropped dead while whipping one of his children on Sunday night. The mother and children had disobeyed his orders about some matter which made him very angry, and while whipping the second child his death occurred.

A large blacksnake has its abode on the farm of Howard Painter, near West Chester, and he will allow no one to kill it, as he says it does more good than harm on the place.

A Plymouth couple walked into the marriage license clerk's office Friday afternoon and after securing a license wandered away, leaving $4.50 and the license on a chair.

The sting of a bumble bee, leading to lockjaw, is believed to have been the direct cause of death of little four years old Ralph Foy, who lived near Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Mary Nase, of Argus, Bucks county, who is nearly 90 years of age, took part in a cake walk at a festival near her home and won the cake.

BOY'S HEAD CUT OFF.

Dupont Boy Called Unler Cars and Was Instantly Killed.

Seeking what he believed would give him shelter from the terrific thunder and wind storm that broke over the Wilkes-Barre section about noon Friday, Paul Bromick, a small Dupont boy virtually walked into the jaws of death.

Within a few seconds after he had crawled under a freight car along a Lehigh Valley railroad branch, near the Heidleberg breaker, No. 2, three cars that were standing further up the track and that had been set in motion by the gale of wind, came tearing down the track under which young Bromlick sat.

The concussion caused al lfour cars to continue their wild race. Just then two employs at the colliery's office, who saw Bromlick creep under the car only a short time before, hurried to the spot and there beheld a horrible sight, the boy's head having been completely severed from the body. Undertaker Lokuta took charge of the remains and removed them to the home of the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bromlick, of Dupont.

The little victim was employed as a breaker boy and was hurrying to his home for dinner when the storm came up and prompted him to crawl beneath the car.—Wilkes-Barre News.

One hundred and thirty-two insane patients at the Danville asylum were taken to a circus at South Danville on Friday afternoon, in charge of 14 attendants and a physician. They enjoyed the performance and are said to have afforded no little amusement to the other spectators.

The Badge of Honesty

Is on every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its superior worth as a blood purifier and invigorating tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherrybark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet which quotes extracts from well-recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Coe, Ellingwood and a host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all bilious or liver complaints and in all "wasting diseases" where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the strength and system.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, pure blood and so invigorates and regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, and, through them, the whole system. Thus all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swellings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed. In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing to apply to them Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your druggist don't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing Salve" will reach you by return post.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

WORK OF THE GRIM REAPER.

Emily Blackman.

A news dispatch from Montrose says:

"A telegram was received here Friday evening announcing the death of Miss Emily C. Blackman, at the Home for Aged Women, in Jacksonville, Fla., where for a number of years she had been staying. Miss Blackman has been in ill health for some months, last Winter, but had greatly improved, so that news of her death came rather unexpectedly to friends here, where she had lived the greater part of her long and useful life, having attained the four-score mark.

"She was a daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Mary J. Blackman, and was born in Gilbertsville, N. Y., July 15, 1826. Her childhood years were spent in Binghamton, but in early girlhood she came to Montrose with her parents and at the age of 15 was a teacher in the old academy here. She was also for some years a teacher in the schools at Towanda and Chester, Pa., and also taught in the West and South for a few years. Miss Blackman possessed considerable literary ability and was the author of many poems and sonnets, but her greatest work was the compilation of an excellent history of Susquehanna county, which she was four years in gathering the material and looking up facts for, and which can be found in nearly every home in the county.

"She was also a linguist of more than ordinary note and could read her testament in ten different languages. In Christian work she was very enthusiastic and earnest, and strongly interested in temperance work. For many years she had suffered from defective hearing, but even thus handicapped she was ever doing some good deed or engaged in a work with energy that was surprising for one of her advanced years. The only surviving relative is her brother, H. H. Blackman of New York, formerly of Wilkes-Barre."

Martin Bennis.

Martin Bennis, an old and respected resident of Towanda, died Friday afternoon at 1:30, at the family home on Lombard street, after an illness of four months. Death was due to the infirmities of old age.

Deceased was born in County Clare, Ireland, 88 years ago. He came to America in 1848, and in 1850 took up his residence in Towanda where he has since resided. He was one of the best known and most highly esteemed of Towanda's many Irish residents, and had a host of friends. His wife preceded him into the great beyond in the early Spring of this year. The following children survive: Michael Bennis of Binghamton, Bridget Bennis, Chicago, and Martin P. Bennis of Towanda.

The funeral was held in the Church of SS. Peter and Paul Monday morning at 9 o'clock; interment was made in the Catholic cemetery.

Mrs. C. Laurance Humphrey.

Mrs. Helen Overton Humphrey, wife of C. Laurance Humphrey of Mechanicville, N. Y., died very suddenly Sunday evening at 7:30 following an attack of acute indigestion. Mrs. Humphrey had been ill for a number of weeks and for some time since coming to Towanda with her mother, Mrs. D'A. Overton, had been confined to her bed at the home of William Griffis, corner Third and Pine streets.

Mrs. Humphrey was the last survivor of the children of the late D'A. Overton. But 30 years of age, with life's brightest days before her, her unexepcted passing to the world beyond comes as a numbing shock to the family and the many friends in her childhood's home and to the new friends in Mechanicville, where she and her husband so recently took up their residence.

Clara Lewis.

Miss Clara Lewis, daughter of the late Morgan Lewis of Towanda, died at the Lewis home in Binghamton, Sunday morning, after an illness of nearly a year. Deceased was 50 years of age, and was for a long time a resident of Towanda, being for a number of years a teacher in the public schools. She was well known and highly esteemed within a large circle of friends who will learn with regret of her demise. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Lewis, of Binghamton, one sister, Miss Mary Lewis, also of that city, and four brothers, James of Towanda, William Lewis of Binghamton, and Morris and Theodore Lewis, residing in the West. The remains were brought to Towanda on train No. 8, Tuesday morning and taken direct to Riverside cemetery, where brief services were held and interment made.

Mrs. William Braund.

Mrs Hannah Jennings Braund, widow of William Braund, died on Sunday afternoon at her home in Asylum township, aged 83 years. She had been ill for several months. Mrs. Braund was one of the oldest residents of Asylum township, having resided upon the Braund homestead for over 60 years. Surviving her are these sons and daughters: Oren, Mathias and William Braund and Mrs. Butts of Asylum, Salathiel and Jesse of Towanda, James of Canton, and Joseph of Hollon Hill.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the Methodist Episcopal church at Asylum.

Mrs. Mary K. Lynch.

Mrs. Mary K. Lynch, one of the oldest residents of Sayre borough, died Saturday morning, at the home of her son, J. C. Lynch, in that village. The deceased had been in failing health for some time, and death was due to the infirmities of old age; she having reached the advanced age of 80 years. She is survived by three sons: J. C. Lynch of Sayre, J. P. Lynch of Athens, and Michael Lynch of Murray, this county. The funeral was held at the Church of the Epiphany, in Sayre, Monday morning, the body was brought to Towanda on train No. 8, and taken from the station direct to the Catholic cemetery for interment.

Mrs. Clara Gilbert.

Mrs. Clara Augusta, widow of the late Elijah Gilbert, of Powell, died July 26, 1907, aged 38 years. She was the daughter of Franklin and Charlotte Alvord Thornton, and niece of the late S. W. Alvord, formerly of Towanda. She was married to Mr. Gilbert Nov. 16, 1888, and leaves seven children to mourn the loss of a faithful and devoted mother. Since the death of her husband, December, 1905, her health has gradually failed and the past few weeks was a great sufferer. She also leaves besides her children a father, three brothers and three sisters. The funeral was held July 28, at the M. E. church, Powell, and the very large attendance attested the esteem the deceased was held by her friends and neighbors. Rev. W. H. S. Loller officiated. Interment in Greenwood cemetery. Those attending from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Eli Thornton of Warren Center, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Thornton, East Waverly, R. F. Thornton and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Brown, Athens, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilbert, Binghamton, Mrs. J. W. Miller, Millerton, Mrs. Eli Cole, Ithaca, Mr. and Mrs. Merton McKee and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. George Gilbert and Miss Ida Gilbert, Franklindale.

Mrs. Anna Kinney.

Mrs. Anna Kinney, wife of E. A. Kinney, of Miama, Fla., died Saturday morning at the home of her brother-in-law, T. H. Kinney, in Sayre, after a protracted illness. Death was due to a complication of diseases. The deceased, who was 41 years of age, went to Sayre from Florida in June last to spend the Summer, hoping to regain her lost health. She grew worse rcently and her brother from the South was summoned to her bedside and arrived Friday. She is survived by three children. The body was shipped to Jacksonville, Fla.

Frank VanSice.

Frank VanSice, a former resident of Sheshequin, died at his home in Newark, N. J., July 29, aged about 60 years. He is survived by a wife, two daughters and one brother, Sumner VanSice. The remains were laid at rest in the family plot at Sheshequin, at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Rev. Sawtelle officiating. He was the son of Cornelius VanSice, the eldest of nine brothers that served in the Rebellion.

Grace E. Johnson.

Grace E. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Johnson, died at the family home in Binghamton, on Friday morning. The funeral was held at the house on Sunday afternoon at 2:30, and the remains were brought to Towanda, where interment was made.

Death of a Child.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Costello of Rummerfield, mourn the loss of their two months' old son who died Friday afternoon. Services will be held at the house Sunday morning, and the body will be brought to Towanda for interment in the Catholic cemetery.

CONCRETE BRIDGES.

Will Be the Rule in Columbia County in the Future.

The scarcity of lumber has driven the Columbia county commissioners to seek other material for use in the construction of county bridges and three new bridges for which bids will sonn be asked will not have a stick of lumber in them, but will be built almost entirely of concrete.

One will be built in Fishing Creek township, an arched culvert; another in Benton township, which will be 27 feet in length and the third in Madison township, 24 feet in length.

The plans for the bridges have been drawn and they show bridges of much greater strength than those constructed of wood. They will at the same time be more sightly.

Boy Disappears.

Harry Abel, the Stokesdale boy, who accidentally shot and killed a companion, John Garello, has disappeared from his home. Young Abel has been heart-broken since the accident. Last week Sunday, when his parents returned from church, they found a note stating that he had left, as he could not stand it to remain in Stokesdale. Herman Abel, the lad's father, has been searching for the boy and learned that he purchased a ticket for Corning, but has traced him no further.—Mansfield Advertiser.

DESPERATE ACT OF 14 YEARS OLD GIRL.

Wanted to Join Her Mother in Heaven and Sought Death.

A sensational attempt at suicide occurred Tuesday afternoon at about 2 o'clock, when Miss Mary Dehoust, 14 years old, of Scranton, attempted to end her life with chloroform.

The girl's mother was a victim of the typhoid fever epidemic last Winter and the only reason she gave for her rash act was that she wanted to follow her mother. The girl made the arrangements for her death carefully and even went so far as to leave a letter naming those she wished for her pallbearers.

After dinner she went to a drug store and purchased ten cens' worth of chloroform. Since her mother's death the girl has been housekeeper for her father, Henry Dehoust, and she was the only one at home, her father being at work.

After obtaining the chloroform she went back home and called in Nora Grady, an eight years old girl residing near by and directed her to spill the stuff slowly on a cotton cloth she laid across her face. The Dehoust girl stretched out on a lounge after locking the door and the Grady child was following out instructions when Mrs. Loveland, a neighbor, came in and smelled the chloroform.

She broke into the room and found the girl unconscious on the lounge and the Grady lassie becoming from the fumes.

The stuff had blistered her cheeks, neck and the upper part of her chest. Dr. F. G. Bryant was called in and after treating her for half an hour brought her out of danger. He asked her why she wanted to die, and the reason mentioned above was the one she gave. He told her she wouldn't follow her mother if she had a hand in her own death, but she threatened that she will carry out the deed later.

In the letter Mary left a last word fr a man whom she called "sweetheart" and named him as one of her pallbearers. She wrote that she would be better off where she was going. The girl was soon pronounced out of danger, but the fumes of the chloroform made her deathly sick for a time. Her act caused considerable excitement in the neighborhood, where she is quite well known.

GEORGE L. BALDWIN WITHDRAWS

Will Not Be a Candidate for Third Term in Legislature.

In announcing George L. Baldwin's declination to accept the nomination for a third term in the New York state legislature, The Syracuse Herald of Aug. 1, says:

"Mr. Baldwin has been but two terms in the assembly, but has risen faster than any other member, through his close personal acquaintance with Speaker Wadsworth and other men of influence at Albany and his qualities of making friends quickly. He rose so rapidly that he had obtained high places on the important cities committee, fifth among 13 members, and similiar station on the railroads committee.

"The withdrawals of Mr. Schoeneck and Mr. Baldwin are sure to weaken the Onondaga delegation as a whole, however strong their successors may be, on account of the influence which the Onondaga men had obtained with the powers in authority at Albany. The delegation was considered as one of the strongest at Albany in the way of commending legislation.

"Mr. Baldwin has frequently told his friends that he intended to withdraw from the assembly because it interfered too much with his personal business affairs; that he could not in justice to himself remain in Albany so much when his business was of a kind that called for immediate presence in Syracuse."

FRANKLINDALE.

Fred Rockwell has put in a new watering trough on his farm along the Towanda creek road.

Mrs Ellen Laning and the Misses Ella and Ruth Arnold of East Towanda, visited at Eugene Arnold's last week.

All is quiet along the P., B. & E. railroad. The story that a man was run over by the cars at the crossing near the creamery proved to be without foundation.

SOUTH TOWANDA.

WAVERLY WINS ITS STREET CAR CASE.

Permanent Injunction Forbids Connection of the Traction Lines.

By a decision announced by Justice George F. Lyon on Saturday in the case of the village of Waverly against the Waverly, Sayre and Athens Traction company, the Elmira, Corning and Waverly company, and the Powers & Mansfield company, these railroads are prohibited from joining their lines at the end of Chemung street, in Waverly.

The Waverly, Sayre and Athens company has street railway lines in Waverly and extending through Sayre and Athens. The other companies have a street car line running into Waverly from Elmira. The companies desired to join their lines at the end of Chemung street, which is a short distance from the center of the village, in order that cars from Elmira and Corning could run to the main part of the village of Waverly.

The companies refused to grant demands made by the village of Waverly and as a result the village refused to allow the companies to connect their lines. The companies contended that they had a right to lay a switch at the end of the Chemung street line and this proposed "switch" the companies proposed to use in passing from one road to another.

To stop the laying of this "switch" the village secured a temporary injunction and the decision of Judge Lyon on Saturday makes permanent that injunction.

In giving this decision Justice Lyon suggests that the officers of the companies and the village agree upon some adjustment of the difficulty.

NEW GRANGE BANK BUILDING.

Handsome and Substantial Structure Will Be Erected in Troy.

The Troy Gazette-Register says: "The directors of the new Grange National bank have engaged Architect J. H. Considine of Elmira, to submit plans and specifications for their new building to be located on the site of the razed opera house in Troy. It is to be 32 feet wide by 60 feet deep, two stories high, 14 feet from floor to ceiling below and 12 above stairs. Gray pressed brick and stone are to be the outside materials. Access to the upper story will be from the side toward the express office which will show an open space of 10 feet as the lot is 42 feet wide. There will be a burglar and fire proof vault in the bank at least 7½x12 feet inside. Heating will be by steam, lighting by electricity and the building will be connected with the water and sewer systems. It is hoped to have it already for occupancy early in December.

A lease of the upper floor has been tendered the Grangers for their weekly meetings, but the committee of the Grange to which the matter was referred have not yet reported back to the bank their wishes in the matter.

There will be little difficulty in securing a desirable tenant or tenants as desirable roms up one flight are of the most part taken at fairly remunerative rentals.

CHURCH 200 YEARS OLD.

Bi-Centennial Celebrated on Lawn Because of Crowd.

A news dispatch from Bridgeton, N. J., says: "The 200th anniversary of the organization of the Greenwith Presbyterian church was celebrated Wednesday, a very large number of people from all about South Jersey gathering about the historic edifice. Much of the celebration was under the old trees of the church property. A history of the church was presented by the Rev. Homer Snitcher, and there was an address by the Rev. C. J. Levenwood. The greeting from the Presbytery was read by the Rev. F. R. Brace, and a number of congratulations from sister denominations by the Rev. Frank Farley.

"The Rev. John S. Stewart, D.D., of Towanda, Pa., made an address. A dinner was served on the lawn. The pastor of the church is the Rev. L. C. Wainwright."

THE "MARY LOUISE"

Gallant Craft Comes to End of Cruise on the Susquehanna.

ENJOYABLE BOATING TRIP.

Commodore Kirby and Party Spend Ten Days in a "Houser" on the Raging Billows — Terriffic Wind Storm Experienced.

After ten days on the raging billows of the picturesque Susquehanna, the "Mary Louise," the gallant craft which set sail from the Towanda port two weeks ago tomorrow, with dashing Commodore C. T. Kirby in command, came to the end of the cruise on Friday night, and at Ransom, Wyoming county, the vessel was run into dry dock and dismantled, being now en route back to this cove on a slow freight.

The ten days on the water were filled with excitement, pleasure and lots of hard work. When the vessel weighed anchor at Towanda the log showed the following names: Commodore and Mrs. C. T. Kirby, First Mate E. D. Rundell, and wife, Second Mate Irving Coolbaugh, and wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brink of Laceyville. Mr. Brink was a non-commissioned officer on the "Mary Louise," but on his gasoline launch which lay alongside of Commodore Kirby's craft, he was captain, all the mates, and the high mucky muck in general.

The first day out, land was not sighted until near evening, when in the twilight the boat was anchored off Kerrick's camp, and there tied up for the night. The second day the gallant craft stranded on a bar at Homets Ferry, and owing to the nature of the bar, which in geographical formation was very much unlike most bars, it was some time before the vessel could be floated. Messrs. Rundell, Coolbaugh, and Kirby carried several pails of water from below the bar poured them into the river above the bar, causing the stream to rise sufficiently to allow the "Mary Louise" to float away on the crest of the manufactured tide.

The following Saturday the vessel mixed up with a terriffic wind storm off the coast of Laceyville, and for a time it was feared the "Mary Louise" would be converted into a flying machine. Much canvass was carried away by the capricious winds, and just as Commodore Kirby was about to send up a distress rocket, a flitting gust of the atmosphere which had been cutting such curious capers, lifted a 17-pound ham, two sides of salt pork and a quantity of bacon from the shelves on the leeward side of the vessel, causing the boat to right itself with the winds and rest easy thereafter on the placid bosom of a little cove on the starboard side.

A reign of terror existed among the ladies on board during the hurricane, and had it not been for the courage of the crew and the great presence of mind of the cook who announced supper when the elements were performing at their worst, something serious might have happened.

To Mrs. Rundell belongs the honor of capturing the largest fish, and to Mr. Rundell belongs the glory of getting on the outside of the most and largest numbers of the finny tribe.

Commodore Kirby is as good a mariner as ever poled a boat, and how he did work to keep the "Mary Louise" off the rough and ragged rocks which were ever stretching out gaunt and grim from either shore eager to tear a hole in the bottom and allow the waves to wave at the crew and passengers. Altogether the voyage was a very enjoyable one, and the party were loath to give up the ship at the end of the time appropriated for the cruise. All have returned home, except Mr. and Mrs. Kirby, who went on to Wilkes-Barre for a brief visit with friends. Mrs. Kirby will visit her daughter, Mrs. Jackson, at Berwick, before returning.

Burlington "Old Church Meeting."

The annual meeting in the Old Church near Burlington, will begin on the 16th of August, continuing over Sunday. Rev. B. I. Ives, D.D., of Auburn, N. Y., has promised to take charge. Few men could be more appropriate to the place and occasion. Though advanced in years, he has not lost his talent for preaching and singing. During 64 years he has been in the active ministry. He was 14 years a pastor, 14 a presiding elder, ten chaplain of Auburn State prison, and is now conference evangelist. In his work as pastor, evangelist and manager of the Round Lake, N. Y., camp meeting he has seen 25,000 conversions in meetings under his care. In his career of 50 years as a church dedicator, he has managed the finances at 2,500 dedications, including Talmage's three Brooklyn Tabernacles, and has raised for them $25,000,000. A cordial invitation is extended to all. May this be the greatest meeting held in that historic church and the beginning of a revival of religion throughout the region. Bring your Methodist Hymnal, edition of 1876. R. E. Huntley, E. J. Yerdon, pastors.

Panama Canal—Erie Canal.

Machinery is digging the Panama Canal a thousand times quicker than the shovel dug the Erie.

Machinery produces the L. & M. Paint at 50 times less cost for labor, than if made by hand.

The L. & M. gives the best job in the world, because L. & M. Zinc hardens L. & M. White Lead and makes L. & M. Paint wear like iron for 10 to 15 years.

It only requires 4 gallons of this celebrated paint and 3 gallons of Linseed Oil at 60 cts. per gallon, to paint a moderate sized house.

If any defect exists in L. & M. Paint, will repaint house for nothing.

TELEPHONE USERS INTERESTED.

A decision by Judge Hunt, in the United States court at Helena, Mont., that one telephone company cannot withhold the use of its lines from another, is regarded in the West as of far reaching importance to telephone subscribers throughout the United States. New York lawyers say undoubtedly there will be an appeal, and then if Judge Hunt is sustained it will affect the users of five and a half million telephones. The complainants were the Montana and Wyoming and the Mutual telephone companies, which asked for an order compelling the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company to furnish connections, when desired, at reasonable compensation. The order was issued and Judge Hunt will name a commission to fix the division of charges.

Oklahoma will come into the Union with the most drastic prohibition law ever embodied in a constitution for the government of men. It prohibits not only the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, but does not allow them brought into the state. Oklahoma's interests are almost entirely agricultural, its citizens are mostly farmers, and it is greatly to their credit that they have decided to begin their career under an organic law that refuses to recognize the "divine right" of the hitherto potential deposit known as King alcohol.

It cannot be too often repeated that the period of the greatest criminality in our country is somewhere between the ages of 20 and 25, and that a very large proportion of criminals do not know how to use their hands in any useful way. One learns from the United States census of 1890 that out of 52,894 convicts, 31,426 were ignorant of any kind of a trade. The wisest act any parent can do is to insist that his child shall master a trade.

New York also has a number of abandoned farms. Some citizens who believe in scattering the population are organizing a movement to reclaim them. The President has signified his interest in the plan and his willingness to help make it a success. Country life may not possess quite so many attractions as one finds in the city, but it has many advantages.

Many people gather elder flowers to make wine. They can also be put to other uses. Add two and a half drams of the blossoms to one quart of boiling water and then strain. This makes a good discutient medicine, administered or applied to scatter swellings or disperse tumors.

Towanda people should be proud of the Germania band, as it is one of the best musical organizations in the state. That the people do appreciate the band is attested to by the large crowds that assemble to hear the Friday evening concerts.

The paper that produced the greatest interest and the longest discussion before the National Educational association was one on the shortage of teachers The conclusions reached were that the requirements were too high the pay too low

During 1906 23 vessels sailed from American ports and have never been heard from since. Three hundred and forty-five persons were on these vessels, not one survivor has been found to tell the tale of a single ship.

Here's hoping that every man and boy who is found carrying a revolver without good reason is arrested, fined to the fullest extent of the law and given all the time in jail that the statutes provide.

The man who carries a deadly weapon is a coward, and a coward is the first to shoot when he is bested in an argument.

THE "MAD DOG" SEASON.

This is the very witching time of year when the fear of rabies is most uppermost in men's souls. We imagine or believe that the mad dog is the product of the so-called dog days, when as a matter of fact there are more cases of rabies in the Winter or cold months than during the Summer time—February being the worst month for the disease. Rabies is dreaded because fatal (unless the Pasteur cure can be taken in time, and that is still of doubtful value) and the death from the same fearful or terrible. In the old times it was a custom in order to relieve the sufferings of the victim to smother him between feather beds. Again the disease is so infrequent that a doctor may practice till he dies of old age and never see a case. In fact, very few physicians have ever been called to attend a patient afflicted with hydrophobia.

All this—the infrequency of the disease and the horrors attending it—has been the parent of many superstitions and false notions concerning it. It is well, then, to know something of the real mad dog as compared with the one fancy has painted. The former can be found portrayed in "The Dog's Medical Dictionary," by Dr. A. J. Sewell, canine surgeon to King Edward, the Kennel club, the Dumb Friends' league and various other English institutions of like order.

Referring to the oft-reported detail of the frothing mouth of the rabid dog he says: "This is a mistake. The mouth may certainly be a little moister than usual at first, but it soon becomes dry and of a dark red color." In the earlier stages of rabies the suffering aniamal shows "an inclination to hide in dark corners, though when called by his owner he comes forward and is very affectionate, licking the hand and even the person's face if allowed." Later the rabid dog "is much disposed to wander if he can only get his liberty, and once he gets out he often goes for miles on a sort of a jog-trot, with head and tail down, going out of his way to attack other dogs, but not so much people, unless they get directly in his way or interfere with him." Left to himself the dog may wander for hours or for a day and a night and then return home."

Again, according to the doctor, a dog really gone mad changes in nature and in voice. He will not often attack his owner unless to resist an effort to restrain him. Contrary to popular impression, he is not afraid of water, even after he has lost the power to swallow. There is no cure for him. Eventually his hind legs weaken and, if he is not killed before, he dies usually within four or five days.

Dr. Sewell crushes the foolish idea that if a dog bites another, or even a person and then shall ever go mad, his victim will go mad, too. He quotes from Pasteur to the effect that a bite from a dog is not dangerous even two days before signs of rabies are observed.

These are ascertained, scientific facts, and should dispel many a superstition or all false knowledge. But one thing more. One may scare himself into hydrophobia. If a dog showing the traditional symptoms of madness bites a human being he is killed at once and the one bitten, left to his imagination, thinks he will get the disease, and this is as bad as the real thing and produces a similar effect. A dog supposed to be mad should never be killed till the supposition is porved to be a fact. So doing will save many a one bitten either from a bad scare or actual death through the workings of the imagination.

Every sick dog is not a mad dog. An ailing dog should not be executed till it is actually determined what is the matter with him. Now that we have knowledge of facts and precaution we can get over the dog days without worriment. Finally, don't fail to muzzle your dog, and keep him off the streets.

TROUBLES OF AN EDITOR.

We have been a country editor but eight brief months, but we are up against it already. It seems to us that in writing up weddings, social gatherings and functions we have worn out certain phrases and we are in need of a new supply. Who will come to our rescue? We want substitutes for the following: "Dainty luncheon," "royal entertainer," "enjoyable," "masterful address," "charming hostess," "conventional black," "a young lady of many accomplishments," "a few appropriate and well chosen remarks," "to mourn his untimely departure," "presided with dignity and grace," "covers are laid." There are others probably that we cannot call just now.—Pender (Neb.) Republic.

Nearly 700,000 children are working in the United States at occupations other than agriculture. Of these 700,000 children one in every six, according to governmental statistics, is working in Pennsylvania, and the number of working children in Pennsylvania is declared to be growing with alarming rapidity. In 1903 there were 32,000 discovered by the factory department; in 1904, 41,000, and in 1905, 48,000.

A statement comes from Berlin to the effect that an ancient manuscript found in the Nile valley supplements and confirms certain portions of Bible history, especially those of the Jews five hundred years before the birth of Christ and previous to the return of Jerusalem. The manuscript has not yet arrived in Berlin and statements concerning its contents are still somewhat nebulous.

THE CITY AND THE FARM AGAIN.

An investigation made by the Department of agriculture shows that, in the state of New York, the population of the cities is still growing at the expense of the country and the disproportion between them is becoming alarming. As the New York Tribune summarizes it: "The country is being absorbed by the city, with the result that farm lands have decreased $170,000,000 in value; that more than 12,000 farms have been abandoned: that the population of the more remote towns and villages has, in several instances decreased forty to fifty per cent."

These comparisons are made with the state's agricultural prosperity in the early 80's. A state convention is to be held soon to consider the abandoned farms, the want of farm labor and "the upsetting of the safe balance between country. and city."

The conditions existing in New York prevail every place to a greater or less extent. It is not so surprising such should be the case in New England, with a largely or relatively sterile soil, but astonishing that it is true of places where it should not be suspected. We know of instances in Bradford county where farmers getting up in years and unable to work as in youth, have sold their farms because of the difficulty in getting help.

Speaking of its own locality the Philadelphia Bulletin remarks: "Even here in Pennsylvania and close to Philadelphia, where there would seem to be every inducement for farming of a high grade, the traveler sees altogether too many fields that oght to bear rich crops covered with daisies and too many old men working the farms in the almost complete absence of younger ones."

To correct this state of affairs various suggestions have been made, but as for us, we say—let nature take its course. The city must be fed and must go to the farm for its food. So the former cannot be congested forever. Given time and the hard struggle for existence in the town, low wages in proportion to the cost of living, high rents and discomforts therein, will bring a reaction and force the ill-fed of the cities back to the country.

Again, if farming paid as well as supposed, or if there was a bigger demand for the products of the field would daisies instead of vegetables be grown near Philadelphia? The law of supply and demand must determine the number of farmers and acres under tillage. People must eat, and if more is demanded the more will be engaged in raising it. This holds true even if the influx to the city is artificial, a fad or disastrous foolishness.

The city cannot live without the farm and natural causes are bound in time to right what is now a partial distress in the country so far as labor is concerned. So long as this lasts, farm products, being fewer, will be higher, and this in turn will bring the laboring man back to the land and establish a more comfortable equilibrium.

THE STANDARD OIL FINED.

The assessment by Judge Landis of the maximum fine of $29,240,000 on the Standard Oil company of Indiana, will surely have the effect of making the trust powers sit up and take notice of the trend. It is an initial evidence that courts are beginning to appreciate that if great corporate wealth is to be restrained by fines the amount of the fines must have an effective proportion to the resources of the offender and his gains from the illegal practices. This sentence presents a positive contrast to the famous case some twenty years ago when certain Standard Oil men convicted of conspiracy which included the blowing up of a rival refinery, were fined by a New York court $250 each.

So far as the abstract relations of the fine, the wealth of the offenders and their gains from the preferential favors in transportation go to the sentence, though it is unprecedented, can be fairly classed as moderate. Taking the Standard Oil aggregation as an entity its gains from illegal favors in transportation have been many times the amount of its fine and its aggregate wealth can pay that fine without extinction or impairment. Indeed, if it were not for the warning that this penalty may be repeated, the comparative ease with which it could be made up by pursuing the practice would rob even this penalty of a great share of its deterrent effort.

Possibly Judge Landis' summoning of the Standard magnates before him may in the end appear to have some bearing on a theory that the responsible owners of a corporation can be held liable to penalties for its criminal offienses. But in any event there is a long succession of appeals and reviews to be fought out before any part of this fine is secured for the United States Treasury. Even with that the sentence has its salutary effect. Great corporate magnates can hardly fail to see that the courts are reaching the point where penalties for corporate violations of the law will be made sharp enough to hurt. When $29,000,000 of fines are imposed it will not be a very long step to putting some magnate in the penitentiary if he commits a penitentiary offense.

Baltimore has for a long time done its own municipal lighting, but lately retired from the field because a private concern has undertaken to do the job at less than half it cost the city to do it. Baltimoreans are no longer the strong advocates of municipal ownership of public utilities they once were.

"Can women be angels?" asks an exchange. Hardly. They think too much of the men folks.

THE CARD OF THANKS.

All over the country newspapers are taking up active crusade against the Card of Thanks which threatens the absolute elimination of this general nuisance from the columns of the daily press. And it is well. Just why resort should be made to public print for the purpose of expressing appreciation for acts or favors rendered in times of need or trouble is beyond comprehension. Surely those people who do the acts of kindness do not expect it and they are the only ones who can possibly be the least bit interested in the "card." Ninety-nine times out of a hundred a Card of Thanks expresses appreciation for "assitance rendered during the illness and death, etc," and thanks for "flowers sent." No one renders assistance in the hour of need unless it is out out of the goodness of heart. And no one sends flowers to a funeral unless he wants to. How absurd and ridiculous it is, then to extend thanks through a newspaper. And such bad form. How much better to accept the favor, or the sentiment in the spirit in which it is given. Say nothing, perhaps and let subsequent acts attest the appreciation. Or if this be not enough to satisfy one, would not a little personal note or verbal expression be much better than a public acknowledgment. — Elmira Star-Gazette.

Believing that Towanda and Bradford county people in general are big hearted, liberal, fair-minded and broad in their views, believing that neighborly and friendly assistance is rendered in time of sickness and death without expectation of public thanks and acknowledgment from the housetops, The Review and Reporter-Journal published by the Towanda Printing company, will no longer give space to "cards of thanks." There is a tendency on the part of the newspapers throughout the country to abandon the time worn custom allowing people to rush into print with a "card of thanks" to friends and acquaintances after the death of some relative and no better time than the present can be found for the ceasing to publish such notices in the columns of our papers. Don't send to The Review or Reporter-Journal "cards of thanks" expecting to see them in print, as no more such notices will be published.

SOMETHING FOR THE BOYS.

Many people seem to forget that character grows; that it is not something to put on ready-made, with womanhood or manhood; but day by day, here a little and there a little grows with the growth and strengthens with the strength, until, good or bad, it becomes almost a coat of mail.

Look at a man of business—prompt, reliable, conscientious, yet clear-headed and energetic. When do you suppose he developed all the admirable qualities? When he was a boy.

Let us see the way in which a boy of ten gets up in the morning, works, plays, studies, and we will tell you just what kind of a man he will make. The boy who is late to school stands a poor chance to be a prompt man. The boy who neglects his duties, be they ever so small, and then excuses himself by saying:

"I forgot; I didn't think," will never be a reliable man.

And the boy who finds pleasure in the sufferings of weaker things will never be a noble, generous, kindly man—a gentleman.

The Erie Daily Times says that "extensive plans are being made by the churches of this city for the coming season's music. From present indications the approaching year will mark a new standard in Erie church music. There will be at least three choirs, with a membership each of 50 voices, if the plans now being considered are realized. And they will be conducted by men recognized as experts in the musical field. Aside from these, there will be other choirs with a membership of at least 25. Several of the churches have made a full orchestra a feature of their instrumental music, and these are going to do even more along this line. New pipe organs are also being installed. Those in charge of the church musical services, in short, are quietly getting ready for a season which shall eclipse all previous efforts." No doubt these efforts will give to the church-going people of Erie music of a high order, but if it will drive out the soul-stirring and uplifting congregational singing of our best church hymns and the chanting of the Psalms, it will not add anything to devout worship.

This item is addressed to correspondents of The Reporter-Journal who use a pencil. It is earnestly hoped they will read and heed: Manuscripts written with hard pencils are sometimes illegible. In trying to put them in type the linotype operators lose time, lose temper, are tempted to profanity. If a pencil is used it should be a soft one which will make a black mark. The best copy is that which is typewritten. Next to that is copy written in a legible hand with black ink. No pencil should ever be used unless it leaves a distinct impression; one that can be easily deciphered, especially under the glare of electricity.

President Thomas, of the Lehigh Valley railroad, said last Thursday that so far as his companies are concerned there has not been and will not be no increase in the price of coal at the mines or in the rates of transportation to the seaboard, except the regular increase of ten cents per month from April to October in the wholesale price of domestic sizes. Local dealers are responsible for any increase in price beyond these figures, he added.

A CHAT WITH OUR YOUNG MEN.

Boys, let us be men. Let us be honest, earnest, young men and we shall then be noble men. Nobleness and gentleness are not one and rarely do we find them living in peace with each other. We may never be what the world calls great, but we can all be noble men, and our nobleness can commence this very hour and just where we are. A young man's first and truest act of nobility is to love, honor and protect his parents. When he becomes too proud to be seen walking as a staff to a tottering, helpless father, or to stand by the bedside of her who is waiting a moment this side of the river to catch one more gaze, through the fading shadow of the past, of her little boy lost in manhood, he is surely fast going down the eminence of manliness.

When we launch our ships on the morning waves of the great sea of life, let us guide them by the light of home, with the helm of the cradle words of our mother. Not until we have left home and are wanderers in the curious strangeness of a strange land, unnoticed, unheeded, lonely and weary, will we know of a truth what a mother is. Then we feel that she is good and we bless her. Never can we repay our mother's kindness. Her withered form and her silvering braids shall be defended till that day cometh when He will make up His jewels—and then, we ween, heaven will know no kinder, no brighter, no purer angel than she. When the ever shining stars shall wane in the fading of our vision, and the noisy world will grow still in our sleep of death, we will forget her; not till then.—South Bethlehem, Pa., Globe.

Referring to what it terms The Vacation Fever, the Harrisburg Courier very sensibly says: "About this season of the year vacation fever becomes epidemic. In a week or so it will have become universal. Its first symptoms are feelings of lassitude and a disinclination to work. Following these come mental visions of mountain or seaside, of country or city, according to the situation in life and the disposition of the individual. As the fever progresses there usually comes a disregard for the savings of the past six months and a desire to spend it all. The disease reaches its height when the 'patient' is enjoying himself with pleasures and luxuries about ten times too expensive for the pocketbook. The recovery is slow and convalescence is usually spent at home. The wise individual when he fels the symptoms will adopt measures to prevent a serious attack by taking himself off to some quiet place where rest and wholesome amusement and eating will prevent the malady from making too deep inroads on his pocketbook and nervous system."

"Turn that wrapping paper the other side out," said a lady to a dry goods store yesterday as the clerk was putting up her purchase in a printed wrapping paper. "I don't want to be a walking advertisement to your store. I read the papers, as all intelligent people ought to do, and I think in them is the place to advertise your business. Instead of asking your customers to carry your sign around with each purchase of goods, go and tell the people through the papers what you have to sell and how you sell it."

RECKLESS SHOOTING.

Altogether Too Much of it Being Done in Towanda.

BULLET THROUGH WINDOW.

Home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coffey at Corner of North Main Street and York Avenue, Used as a Target on Sunday Night.

The reckless discharging of firearms in the borough of Towanda is becoming altogether too frequent, and drastic measures will have to be taken to put a stop to the practice. There seems to be an epidemic of carrying concealed weapons, and the discharging of the same without provocation, and without regard as to consequences. The police are ever on the alert for reckless shooters, but three men, two on at night and one in the day, cannot watch everybody who is apt to have a pistol.

Last Saturday night two men were shot near the "red row" and while an Italian will have to answer to the grand jury on the charge of firing the shots, yet even the interference of the law has had no effect, generally speaking. Sunday midnight, just about 24 hours after the shooting near the "red row," some unknown person fired a 38-calibre bullet into the house at the corner of North Main street and York avenue, occupied by Charles Coffey, superintendent of the finishing room of Frost's Sons' factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Coffey retired about 11:30 o'clock, their sleeping rooms being on the upper floor. About 12:30 Mrs. Coffey heard a noise down stairs which sounded like some article falling to the floor. A few minutes later she heard people on North Main street, and as they were laughing it was believed that the noise which seemed to be in the house was really on the street. Monday morning Mr. and Mrs. Coffey found that a bullet had been fired through one of the down stairs windows, had perforated the glass, pierced the curtains, struck a picture frame on the wall and then fallen to the floor where it was found. Mr. Coffey had been reading Sunday night and less than an hour before the bullet was fired through the window had been seated at a table directly in the path which the bullet took. Had he been still there when the shot was fired he would have been killed or wounded.

Chief Miller has made a thorough investigation in the matter and arrests may follow. It was a pure piece of recklessness which might have had a fatal result.

In Luzerne county the authorities have started a crusade against the carrying of weapons, and so far in Wilkes-Barre and vicinity over three barrels of revolvers and knives have been gathered in by the police. In several instances people have been fined $100 and given 90 days in jail for carrying pistols. The discharging of firearms on the streets of Towanda are of almost nightly occurrence, and the practice is not only giving the police but the people great concern. Only the other night a couple of men in a carriage while driving along the street fired a pistol two or three times, and then whipped up their horse and escaped before the police arrived.

A good stiff sentence for every one found with a pistol on their person unless they can give some good reason for the carrying of the same would go a long way toward breaking up the practice.

Ira Snedeker Injured.

Ira Snedeker, the well known drayman, was painfully injured by being thrown from his dray Friday afternoon. He was turning his team around at the corner of Main and Park streets and as the dray went over the pile of gravel being used in making concrete for the new pavement, the wagon gave a lurch throwing Mr. Snedeker to the ground, causing a painful injury to one of his shoulders. Dr. Johnson attended him.

Agreed to Disagree.

Jean Pool and his wife, residents of Towanda township, after sailing over the troublesome sea of matrimony for several years, on Monday agreed to disagree. They went before 'Squire Thompson to have matters arranged in proper legal form, and when settlement had been made, the wife was in possession of all the household goods, and Jean, the husband, was the possessor of the pig, a promising little porker.

Jovial Club Entertained.

The Jovial club, composed of Towanda young people, met at the home of Miss Mary Jordan, on Second street Wednesday evening, and the members were royally entertained. The diversions of the evening were vocal selections, cards, etc. A bountiful repast was served during the evening, and every guest voted that the meeting was one of the most enjoyable yet held by the club.

NEWS OF THE COUNTY SEAT.

WILL BE CHARTERED.

Village Improvement Society Will Be a Bona Fide Organization.

The Village Improvement society which has been doing such excellent work toward making "Towanda Beautiful" is to be chartered and made a bona fide organization. At a meeting of the society in the court house Monday afternoon, it was decided to apply for a charter, and the necessary papers and application will be forwarded to Harrisburg at once.

Seventeen new members were taken in at the meeting Monday and the society was reported to be in excellent condition, every member being very enthusiastic. It is intended to commence work on the river bank between Court and State streets and complete the beautifying of the river front for two squares before starting other work. The road at the foot of Park street is to be widened and made more passable for people going to and from the river. The society also proposes to enforce the borough ordinance and the state laws which require all property owners to remove the weeds in the streets in front of their premises.

The Improvement society has done a wonderful work so far, and Towanda shows many signs of a systematic, progressive campaign. When chartered the society will have authority and more power to carry on the good work which has been undertaken.

THREE FINGERS AMPUTATED.

M. C. Gerould Seriously Injured While at Work in the Frost Factory.

M. C. Gerould sustained injuries while at work in Frost Sons factory Saturday forenoon which necessitated the amputation of three fingers on the left hand, at the Packer hospital. He had just recovered from injuries received in the factory a few weeks ago, which resulted in a slight attack of blood poisoning, and Saturday morning was operating what is called a joiner, or buzz planer. The board which he was working on the machine, turned suddenly, allowing his left hand to come in contact with the swiftly revolving knives. The second, third and little fingers were horribly lacerated, being literally chopped to pieces.

Accompanied by V. E. Pennell, Mr. Gerould went to the Packer hospital on the afternoon train, where the surgeons amputated the three injured members, the little finger near the knuckle, the third finger near the second joint, and the second finger between the first and second joints.

"JACK" COTTER TO WED.

Well Known Slab Artist to Quit Base Ball at End of Season.

The Bradford Evening Star, published at Bradford, where "Jack" Cotter of Towanda, is working on the Inter-State league ball team as one of the star slabbists, has the following to say of Cotter, which will be a surprise to the young man's many Towanda friends:

"It was reported down here that Tuesday was Cotter's last game in this league; that he is going to Johnsonburg to work in a hotel and play with the independent team of that place. It is said that John is soon to be wed to one of Kane's fair daughters and that he will quit base ball at the end of the season. One of the best young pitchers in the country will be lost to base ball when Cotter quits."

Will Build a Cottage.

District Attorney Mills has purchased an acre of land located at the South end of the Susquehanna "Narrows," from Burton J. Macafee of Washington, the deal having been closed Saturday, on which he will begin work at once in building a cottage. The plot which is one of the most picturesque along the river is triangular with a frontage of about 450 feet on the highway and also on the river. It is above the high water mark and is an ideal spot for a Summer home.—Athens News.

Durell Wins at LeRaysville.

The Durell baseball team journeyed to LeRaysville on Saturday and trimmed the team of that hustling village by a score of 15 to 8. Northrop was in the box for Durell, while LeRaysville used three pitchers trying to check the heavy hitting of the Durell team. Durell has a straight string of victories so far this season, having defeated all the strongest teams in Eastern and Southern Bradford. They now claim the championship of Eastern and Southern Braford.

Held to the Grand Jury.

Samuel J. Wheeler of Bentley Creek, has been held by the justice of the peace of that village, in $500 bond for his appearance before the next grand jury on the charge of assaulting a young man named Mott of Wellsburg, who was working for him. Wheeler, it is alleged, became angry because Mott left the harvest field before 6 o'clock, going to the house for supper, and attacked him with great violence, biting out a piece of Mott's under lip.

Divorce by Mortgage.

A curious paper has been filed in the clerk's office of Broome county, N. Y., by a notary public of Deposit, N. Y. The document states that, for a consideration of $200, James R. Thompson separates from his wife. The money was raised by mortgage. It serves the purpose of a divorce granted the husband by his wife, and was signed in 1900.

ULSTER OUTCLASSED.

Towanda Team Tag Village Boys and Make Them Turn Tail

OUTPLAYED AND OUTSWATTED

Couldn't Stand the Gaff and Flunked Twice in One Inning—Umpire Meredith Gave Game to Towanda 9-0—Ulster Couldn't Score.

In the sixth hour of sumptous swatting, with the "champeen" Ulster baseball bunch completely outclassed, outplayed and outdid at every point of the compass, and with the tally teller trundling along with 7 tall ones for Towanda and none for Ulster, what did the last named aggregation do but upset, flunk, falter and fail to fill in for the remaining three innings of what might have been one of the very greatest and calubrious collections of diamond capers ever essayed on the East Side grounds. This all happened during the after dinner time of Wednesday.

Great gobs of gladness—just think of Ulster, that little town which has been tweaking the baseball nose of every place on the Bradford county map, telling most teams to go get a reputation and a peck of lemons for themselves, going down to an inglorious defeat before Towanda's modest, moseying gang of horsehide heelers who never made any serious pretense of trampling great ball bands into the earthly earth. Seven to 'nuthin in favor of the county seat, and then after the flare up, Umpire Meredith just tacked two more scores on and called it 9-0 in favor of the local lads Just because Ulster was hopelessly hammered to a wheezy whisper, had 'nuf and rather than take something hard to swallow as 'twere, they gathered up their bandboxes and hit the cowpath for be it ever so humble.

A forfeited swatfest is very unsatisfactory at the best and had not Ulster in the past been so firm in their belief of being able to do dashing diamond diddings, not one of the 710 spectators would have whimpered a whimper when they quit. But as it were, no one was satisfied. Every Towandian wanted to see the slaughter go on, wanted to see Ulster properly pumped and paddled until they were willing to admit that they are not the only classical conglomeration of cuckoos in the classical class.

Towanda started right in and showed shut out form from start to stop, and Ulster went up against it so hard that it hurt their feelings and caused a headache. They even bet real money that they would ramsoggle Towanda, and now they are regretting many regretful regrets. Cranmer the tall sidewheeler, or what is known in baseball parlance as a southpaw, went in to slam for Ulster. He has all kinds of side swipes, swift shoots, and foolers, but somehow or other those that were working were the easiest things imaginable for the Towanda boys. Swat after swat until it seemed like one of those sky blue swatfests which come only to those in swatland swept over the spreading acres. There was a pitter patter of fleeing footsteps over the pillow paths and Towandian after Towandian slid over the home plate.

Such joy until the sixth. Row after row of ladies banked along the first base line applauded, yelled, whooped and in so doing exposed glorious gatherings of kissed and unkissed dentistry. Such jollifying. Everybody was happy until the sixth.

Northrop had been throwing some of the funniest foolers, some of the most dazzling dips and decoys and the Ulster heavy hitters were never in danger of doing things that would cause little slim marks to be made on the score sheet. Towanda was playing ball, the kind that makes a feller hungry for more, the kind that makes male and females forget supper, when the sixth, the fatal sixth slipped in.

Ryan was paddling along down the path toward third, and the ball was thrown to stop his flight in the direction of home sweet home. Umpire Charley Meredith of Monroeton called Ryan safe and that was what caused the following fussing. Ulster quit right then and there and would not play any more. Captain Russell and Captain McQueen got together and compromised by calling Ryan out, although Meredith did not change his decision. The game was resumed, and just as everybody got seated expecting to see some going along toward the finish, Cranmer made a balk and Umpire Meredith advanced a Towandian from first to second. This caused another fussy fuss, and Ulster then laid down and refused to continue. They were given time in which to resume, but refusing Umpire Meredith declared the game forfeited to Towanda by the score of 9-0.

Ulster was hopelessly beat from the first, would have been shut out without a doubt, and that the game did not go the limit is much to be regretted. Towanda showed surprising strength, and that is one thing which caused Ulster to long for a closing of hostilities.

TOWANDA BOY LOSES TOE.

Lewis Connolly Meets With Very Painful Accident Saturday.

Lewis Connolly, young son of Dr. L. T. Connolly, the veterinary, met with a painful accident Saturday evening which resulted in the loss of the great toe on his right foot.

Young Connolly with some boys, were playing with a bicycle, one of them being on the wheel. In some manner the Connolly boy's right foot became caught in the chain and before he could extract it, the sprocket wheel tore the flesh from the great toe, leaving the bone bare. Dr. T. Ben Johnson amputated the injured member close to the foot.

Visiting Towanda Relatives.

Charles J. Carroll of C. P. Diaz Mexico, is spending a month's vacation in the East and is at present the guest of his mother, Mrs. M. Carroll on York avenue. Mr. Carroll for several years and up until July 15, when his resignation took effect, was assistant chief engineer of the Mexican International railway with headquarters at C. P. Diaz. He has formed a partnership which will be known as the Parker & Carroll consulting and contracting and civil engineers, with offices at Terreon, Mexico, and they have several large contracts in view. Both Mr. Carroll and his partner, Mr. Parker, are graduates of Yale, and both are associate members of the American Society of Engineers.

Was Not Charles Brady.

The man who fell from a freight train and was cut in two while trying to extinguish the flames which were burning him to death near Thomasville, in York county, was not Charles Brady of North Towanda, as was believed by his relatives. Thomas Brady read of the accident in The Review of Wednesday and immediately started an investigation. Chief Miller telegraphed to the police chief at Slatington, where the body was buried and learned that the dead man's name was Bradley and not Brady. The description does not tally in the least with Charles Brady and his relatives are now satisfied that it was not him who met such a terrible fate.

Alfleeto Back in Jail.

Patsy Alfleeto, the Italian held to the grand jury for shooting two young men near the "red row" in the First ward Saturday night, and who was released Wednesday on $500 bail furnished by P. Gori, was surrendered by his bondsman Thursday night and is again a prisoner in the county jail. A misunderstanding was the cause of Mr. Gori's withdrawing as bondsman.

Committee Will Report.

The report of the committee of the Bradford County Bar association upon the death of W. J. Young, Esq., will be presented to the court Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock when remarks will be made by members of the bar. All members of the bar are expected to attend.

B. F. Dunfee Suffers Relapse.

B. Frank Dunfee, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, suffered a relapse on Wednesday and was unconscious for several hours. Dr. C. H. Ott, of the Packer hospital, was called in consultation with Dr. S. M. Woodburn, on Thursday.

Arbitrators Chosen.

Perry F. Estelle, G. W. Kilmer and D. H. Turner have been chosen arbitrators to hear the case of May R. Blackman vs. W. DeWitt Fox and Carrie M. Fox. They will meet in Towanda on Friday, August 16.

Subpoena in Divorce.

A subpoena in divorce has been awarded in the case of D. D. Jayne vs. Margaret Jayne.

LIGHT IS BREAKING.

Village Solons Held Interesting Meeting Last Evening.

SIDEWALKS AND LIGHTS

These Two Matters Given Very Earnest Consideration—Light Committee Will Make Final Report Next Monday Night.

Light is breaking on Towanda for a certainty. For the first time since the abandonment of the street lighting system on June 1, what is being done, trying to be done and will be done, has been made public. That is, the light question was discussed and given earnest consideration in open meeting of the town council Monday evening. Chairman Meredith of the light committee reported that the proposition submitted to the electric illuminating company had been rejected. He submitted a proposition from Manager Smith of the Towanda Electric Illuminating company which gives a new arrangement of the street lights, with 28 arcs, 18 series and one incandescent for $2,497 per year.

After earnest consideration and much discussion, the light committee was given until next Monday evening, at which time they will submit a final report. Messrs. Meredith, Califf and Passage of the light committee will go over the streets today, examine into the proposed new system and acquaint themselves with just what is needed, and whether or not the new arrangement will prove satisfactory. A number of changes will probably be made in the arrangement of lights as proposed.

Improved Sidewalks.

Another matter given consideration, and on which determined action was taken, was relative to the repairing and improving of sidewalks. D. C. DeWitt, Esq., presented a petition from the property owners and residents of Watts street asking that the sidewalk along the west side of that thoroughfare be repaired. This same sidewalk has occupied a large share of attention on the part of council for several months, and during the discussion it was brought out that the borough has no lumber with which to repair sidewalks about town. On motion of Messrs. Meredith and Cronk, Secretary Lane was ordered to buy at once 10,000 feet of lumber with which to repair every dilapidated walk in the borough. When the lumber arrives a force of men will be put to work and the repairing of walks will be done in a systematic and thorough manner.

Two new crosswalks are to be laid as soon as possible, one at the corner of Main and Bridge streets from A. M. Baker's grocery to L. Marks' clothing store, and the other at the corner of Main and Elizabeth streets.

Each of the regular police officers was granted a ten day's vacation with pay. After the approval and order to pay the following bills, which include the ones for the half of the concrete foundation of the new brick pavement, council adjourned to meet again next Monday evening.

New Pavement	$925.56
Miscellaneous	116.58
Police	140.00
Light	25.00
Streets	64.82

Tramp Gets Five Days.

Chief Miller arrested a tramp for begging Monday morning, and Burgess Foyle gave the hungry man five days to assist in the cleaning up of the stone pile in the rear of the court house.

FATHER BOYLOND TRANSFERRED

Goes From Towanda to Kingston as Assistant to Father Lynott.

Rev. Father Boylond, for the past year curate of the Church of SS. Peter and Paul of Towanda, has been transferred to Kingston, where he becomes assistant to Father Lynott. Rev. Father Ruddy has been transferred from Kingston to Towanda where he will be assistant to Rev. Father Coroner.

Father Boylond is without a doubt one of the most brilliant and gifted young men in the priesthood. He is a natural born orator, of commanding appearance and as a pulpit speaker has but few equals. During his stay in Towanda he has made hosts of friends, not only among his parishoners but in the protestant circles as well.

Will Meet in Towanda and Sayre.

Charles F. Moore Camp, No. 6, U. S. W. V., had a very interesting meeting last Friday night in the P. O. S. of A. hall, this place. The following resolutions were adopted: Resolved, That "the regular monthly meetings of this camp be held at Sayre, providing that at least four meetings a year be held at Towanda." Resolved, That "camp meetings be held at Towanda on the first Friday of February, May, September and November." This gives about the same number of meetings that have been held in Towanda for the last year or so, while the monthly meetings at Sayre will give a large growth to the camp and strengthen it in its purpose to promote the common interest of the comrades of the late war with Spain. The camp already has a large membership in Sayre and vicinity where there are probably still 75 or more unattached comrades.

Little Boy Purloins Valve.

Burton Johnson, a lad of perhaps eight years, is in the county jail having been arrested for stealing an $8 brass check valve from the S. and N. Y. shops. The lad after purloining the valve went to Carman's store where he tried to dispose of it. The valve was left for the inspection of Mr. Carman, who was not in the store at the time and a few minutes after Johnson left the store, Charles Foyle, master mechanic at the S. and N. Y. shops happened into Carman's, recognized the valve as being railroad property, learned who had brought it there and a few minutes later had captured the boy and turned him over to Chief Miller. Young Johnson is a motherless lad who would be much better off in the reform school and this will probably be what will be done with him by the authorities.

A Trolley Line to Towanda.

It was recently stated on what seems to be most excellent authority that there will soon be a trolley line from Athens to Towanda under the control of the same company which now operates the Waverly- Sayre and Athens line and the new Waverly, Elmira and Corning line. It is said that an understanding with the Lehigh has been effected which will advance the project and that in the very near future surveys, etc., for the new line will be made.—Sayre Times-Record.

Fine Team of Horses.

Agent William Shores of the United States Express company, has purchased of Hon. F. N. Hubbard of Wetona, a fine matched team of grey percheron horses, which will be used on the local express wagon. The team is finely matched, weighing about 1,300 each, and is as handsome a span of horses as can be found in Bradford county.

MEMORIAL.

A testimony of respect to the memory of Mrs. Adelaide Passmore Newell, offered by the Wysox Sewing society of which she was a loved and honored member:

"Her sufferings ended with the day,
Yet lived she at its close,
And breathed the long, long night away
In statue-like repose.

"But when the sun in all his state
Illuminated the Eastern skies,
She passed through glory's morning gate
And walked in Paradise."

One of the most beautiful traits of human character is that the living mourn the dead. So we pause in our busy life to pay a tribute of respect and love to one whose kindness and courtesy made each of us her friend. Honor and truth are not mere idle abstractions. They are the living and practical realities upon which men and women found their best reliance for personal happiness, and which constitute the real welfare and safety of this life. And in the life of this gentlewoman whose death we mourn, these qualities were constantly exemplified, so in our contemplation of them and their exercise, may we not take new resolve to pay them due respect in our memory of the dead, and call for their recognition and practice in our daily living. The impressions left by her daily walk and conversation were familiar to all and as we listened to the simple statement of her virtues and her christian faith and works by her pastor who spoke to neighbors and friends, and heard the same testimony which we can all fear, we realized anew how conscientious, just and upright she was. Her intellect was active, acute and her culture liberal. She was brave, disinterested and and true, sincere and constant in friendship, possessing a tender and loving nature. In her own household we pause upon its sacred threshold but to utter one word: As wife and mother she merited the grief which can only be assuaged by Him whose promise is sure. In the battle of life as we near its close, so many who began the march with us have fallen like leaves in wintry weather, that we naturally feel as if the friends who are gone are more than those who remain. What we are expected to learn from these events is not merely the trite lesson of the uncertainty of life, but that as death ends so life must be filled up with duty, and as we looked in the face of our honored dead, we felt how solemn it is to close forever the book of human purpose and human activity, and human obligation, and if this dear friend could come back from the "undiscovered country" and speak to us do we not know what her message would be? Would she not counsel peace and good will and love toward all? Her task here is finished, she has no part or lot in all that is done beneath the sun. No more for her the beauty of the Spring, the splendor of the Summer, the glory of the Autumn, the uncrowned majesty of Winter! Flowers will spring from her grave, storms will beat upon it, morning will greet it with her earliest light, night crown it with her stars, and the earth rolling in its great orb in infinite space, will hear her dust with hers, till time shall be no more. O, mystery of death, and greater mystery of life! Both are in the hands of Him without whose knowledge not a sparrow falls; obedient to whose will tides of human destiny ebb and flow, and unto whom a thousand years are but as yesterday, when it is gone, or a watch in the night.

"Rest at last, dear friend;
Repose complete, eternal.
Love, rest and home."

Fuller Reunion.

The descendants of Jonas Fuller held a reunion at Camptown on July 31. Every branch of the family was represented, there being more than 100 present. The weather was all that could be desired. An excellent dinner was served by Mrs. Clarence Chaffee in a grove adjoining their residence. After dinner the family group was formed in the grove back of the M. E. church. After prayer by Rev. M. L. Cook, an informal program was given by G. H. Fuller of Detroit, Mich., acting as chairman of the meeting. The program consisted of short addresses by different members of the family, interspersed with music, after which a permanent organization was formed by electing the following officers: G. H. Fuller, Detroit, Mich., president; W. L. Fuller, Herrick, Pa., first vice-president; C. W. Fuller, Camptown, second vice-president; Mrs. Charles Fuller, Auburn, secretary. The executive committee appointed were: Mrs. P. A. Smith of Camptown; Mrs. J. O. Fuller, Auburn, and Miss Abbie Fuller, Camptown. Relatives were present from the following places: Tekamah, Neb.; Detroit, Mich.; Barton, N. Y.; Nichols, N. Y.; Pittston, Skinners Eddy, Laceyville, Wyalusing, Auburn, Sayre, Washington, D. C., Herrick, Pa., Lestershire, N. Y., Tunkhannock, Sylvara. Greetings were received from E. S. Fuller and family, Seattle, Wash., Ethel Fuller and family, Palm Beach, Fla., Judge Fred Fuller of Nome, Alaska. It is the purpose of this organization to give at the next meeting a sketch of the life and teachings of this grand old man, whose descendants are so widely scattered. Adjourned to meet on the second Wednesday in August, 1908, at Camptown.

ONE HUNDRED FORTY-FIRST BOYS WILL MEET AT MONROE.

Annual Reunion of the Famous Regiment Survivors August 28.

The following announcement of the 24th annual reunion of the survivors of the famous 141st Regiment Pennsylvania Infantry:

Dear Comrade:—

The rolling year brings us near our 24th annual reunion which will be in the Presbyterian church at Monroeton, Pa., Wednesday, Aug. 28.

The business meeting will begin at 10:30 o'clock a. m., at which in addition to the usual routine business, propositions may be considered affecting the entire character of the organization.

At 12 o'clock, noon, dinner will be served at each hotel, price, 25 cents per guest. Headquarters will be at Hotel Wilcox.

The afternoon session will begin at 2 o'clock, at which there will be addresses, reminiscences, recitations, songs, etc. There will be no evening session.

Hacks will be in waiting at East Towanda station, on the arrival of the North bound Lehigh Valley accommodation train, Wednesday morning.

Comrade, Patriotic "Old Monroe" is waiting to give glad and hearty welcome to the members and friends of this grand old regiment, which for service and suffering stands peerless among the regiments of the Keystone state. Bring your family, invite your friends, and help make this a gala-day, worthy of the glorious history and holy memories that cluster about an organization of which you are a part, of which you and your country are proud to honor. G. W. Kilmer, president, Monroeton, Pa. David Craft, secretary, Angelica, N. Y.

Seedless Tomatoes.

Success has crowned the efforts of the experts in the Agricultural department in the attempts to produce a seedless tomato. The work has been going on for six years at the experiment farm of the department and officials are immensely gratified at the results. The new tomato is only one of a number of interesting vegetables that have been produced by cross breeding. It has developed into a fixed type and crosses with other plants have little or no effect upon it. The "seedless" tomato is not always seedless. Sometimes it has no seeds at all, sometimes it may have eight or nine and sometimes it may contain 50. The plant is a very large one, of excellent flavor and has been given the name of "Giant." It is the result of a cross of the Golden Sunrise on the Dwarf Champion. The plant is a persistent bearer and flowers up to the killing frosts in November.

Found Dead in Bed.

John Flemming of Forksville, was found dead in his bed last Thursday morning, death having summoned him without a struggle as he lay asleep. He retired Wednesday evening in his usual health, and heart failure was the cause of his sudden death. Mr. Flemming was a resident of Forksville for many years where he was one of the most honored citizens. He was influential in the local affairs of his home town and was always ready to lend a helping hand wherever needed. He is survived by three sons and six daughters, his wife having died about six months ago. The funeral services were held Saturday afternoon.—Laporte News Item.

A Pleasant Surprise.

On Tuesday morning of this week a large company of friends and neighbors gathered at the pleasant home of T. J. Bailey, in North Towanda, in honor of his 63rd birthday. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rundell who are in their 83rd year, also Mrs. Lida Campbell, who has passed her 80th birthday. A bountiful dinner was served at the noon hour to which all did ample justice. The rest of the day was spent in singing and social intercourse. After wishing Mr. Bailey many happy returns of the day all departed for their homes feeling the day had been well spent.

Careless, Bloodless Cuss.

The coatless man puts a careless arm
'Round the waist of the hatless girl,
While over the dustless, mudless roads
In a horseless wagon they whirl,
Like a leadless bullet from hammerless gun,
By smokeless powder driven,
They fly to taste the speechless joys
By endless union given.

The only luncheon his coinless purse
Affords to them the means
Is a tasteless meal of boneless cod,
With a dish of stringless beans.
He smokes his old tobaccoless pipe,
And laughs a mirthless laugh
When papa tries to coax her back
By wireless telegraph.

Linseed oil meal fed to hens during the summer is said to hasten the period of molting, thereby putting them in condition for late fall and winter laying.

The fellow who makes a practice of taking more than half the road when you pass him on the highway is likely to prove none too good a citizen and a disagreeable neighbor.

Of the species of birds which frequent the farms of the country none is more prized and valuable than the barn swallow and no other as big an all around nuisance as the English sparrow.

The red winged blackbird, with wings spread and head and neck feathers a-fluff, an attitude which he often assumes when near his mate, is one of the prettiest of the common American birds.

The crop of raspberries is never so large but folks are prone to begrudge the robin the few he takes in return for the great service he renders in the destruction of many forms of insect life. How hard it is to be generous!

We are at times at a loss to understand why the pigweed and pursley riot in undisturbed luxuriance, while we have such an all fired hard time to overcome the enemies of the rose. The reason is doubtless simple, but it isn't apparent.

As ordinarily kept, the tame pigeon, making its home in the loft of the big red barn, does not yield a return equal to the damage which it does to hay and grain. Where one makes a business of raising them and they are kept confined the case is different.

The recently passed federal pure food law makes unlawful the treatment of sugar with chemicals to bleach it to the bluish white color which has characterized it for years. Hereafter it will have a yellowish tinge, but will be just as sweet and cost just as much.

The florist's recipe for soil for his roses is one-third sod, one-third clay and one-third well rotted manure thoroughly mixed and allowed to decompose a year prior to its use. This makes soil which is rich, yet stiff enough to make ideal conditions for the roots of the rose.

Barring a light feeding of hay and grain for that portion of the flock which is kept through the winter, sheep will practically get a living from the vegetation on the farm which would otherwise be waste and lost. They prefer weeds to grass, and from the standpoint of weed destroyers alone they more than pay their way. Every farm of 160 acres should have a flock of thirty.

An all over bath at the close of a heated day's work is a thing that will prove most enjoyable and refreshing for both man and horse. Where water is had under pressure and not too cold the horses in a very short time will come to greatly enjoy a shower bath. For the man a bathroom can be arranged with little expense and trouble, so that he can have a spray from an overhead sprinkle nozzle, a plan that beats a two pint wash dish and a 2 by 4 wash rag all hollow.

Experiments conducted recently by an eastern experiment station show that as a food for poultry skim milk has a value of from 1½ to 2 cents per quart. Two flocks of poultry equal in number were fed exactly the same rations under similar conditions, except that milk was used instead of water in mixing the soft food and a supply furnished in addition to the water for drinking purposes. The facts presented suggest in an emphatic way the wisdom of combining dairying and poultry raising as husbandry pursuits.

A MUSTARD CURE.

The city authorities of Spokane, Wash., have found a very effective cure of the local tramp problem by turning all members of the profession who appear within the municipality over to the tender mercies of the department of public works, under whose supervision they are at once set to work pulling the mustard which has gained quite a foothold in the vicinity of the railroad shops and yards. Since this plan has been put into operation the Weary Willie tribe shun Spokane as a hen does water. Where a town is not so fortunate as to have a mustard patch, a municipal wood yard or stone pile would prove a good substitute and answer all practical purposes.

THIRTY CHEWS.

A suggestion for people of corpulent tendency which they will find more effective than a good many antifat treatments and the no breakfast fad is that of slower eating and a more deliberate masticating of food. The tendency with all too many of us is to eat so rapidly that more food is taken into the stomach to satisfy the immediate demands of the appetite than the system really needs. Very naturally the surplus nourishment has to be worked off, and quite a portion of it goes to produce added flesh. While the lately recommended "thirty chews to the mouthful" may be a trifle extreme, it is far more hygienic than the practice which quite generally prevails of ten or less. With slower eating the stomach would call for and be satisfied with less, while the more deliberate mastication of the food would be a better cure for dyspepsia than most of the panaceas that are widely advertised.

The two days following their departure from the nest is a period which is fraught with especial danger for the young birds. We have seen five little bobtailed wrens leave their tin can home only to become a tender morsel for an old tabby cat and her brood of kittens. When it is possible the cat should be kept shut up until the little birds can acquire the use of their wings.

Cases are not infrequent where the value of a farm has deteriorated $15 to $20 an acre as a result of allowing quack grass or the Canada thistle to get a foothold. Successful eradication of either pest involves methods which mean the loss of one and sometimes two crops. The careful man will allow neither to get the start of him.

The number of farmers is on the increase who make a practice of sowing rape in their fields of corn just before the last time through with the cultivator. The amount usually sown is seven or eight pounds to the acre. If allowed to grow until husking time it furnishes a splendid feed for stock cattle, hogs and sheep until well into winter.

While it isn't in any sense Christian, it is a very natural impulse which makes a fellow want to fire a dose of bird shot into the disappearing anatomy of the automobile owner whose machine scares a high strung horse, but who sails by its owner as indifferent and as oblivious to consequences as if he had no rights that were bound to be respected.

A couple of lumps of copperas or bluestone as big as a hickory nut dissolved and poured into the cistern will remove the offensive odor which sometimes characterizes it during the spring and summer season. It tends to prevent the propagation of low forms of vegetable and animal life which are responsible for the odor which soft water sometimes has.

There is no summer pastime which surpasses in interest and which is more truly recreative in the highest sense than a study of the habits of the various birds which may make their home in one's locality. The intelligence which they exhibit and the faithfulness and devotion which the parent birds show toward each other and to their young are full of inspiration.

A number of the readers of this department may be interested in an announcement recently made public by the officials of the land office at Washington to the effect that 175,999 acres of land adjoining the Bitter Root national forests in Idaho and 137,000 acres between Diamond mountain and Plumas national park in California will be subject to settlement Sept. 30 and to entry Oct. 30 next.

While there are numerous cases where mere bad luck seems to be responsible for keeping folks from getting ahead in the world, in the vast majority of cases the status of the well to do is attributable to the fact that they are more industrious, work a good deal harder and manage more wisely than those who fail to make corresponding progress. In the long run it is as much perspiration as it is inspiration which is responsible for success.

While the onion does not make a very big showing as compared with some other crops, there are few which take a larger measure of fertility from the soil. For this reason they should not be grown successively on the same soil unless it is given a thorough fertilizing.

Where an icebox or cool cellar is not available the temperature of milk, cream or other foodstuffs may be greatly reduced by wrapping a wet cloth around the receptacle in which they are placed and hanging it in the shade out of doors, where it will be exposed to a breeze.

We have often wondered what the confirmed depot loafer does between trains and in how many cases women in the home take in washing to support his lazy carcass. Whatever other opportunities fellows of this class may miss, they can always be counted on to turn up at mealtime.

The frequent spading up of small portions of the poultry yard not only furnishes the hens with needed exercise, but also provides a supply of animal food which they will greatly relish, and incidentally the exercise of spading may be a good thing for the fellow who owns the chickens.

In essential respects a horse is a good deal like a man—likes three square meals a day, clean and comfortable quarters in which to sleep and as considerate and decent treatment as it is possible to give him. The horse would have just grounds for protest at any point where the man would.

KEEPS THEM BUSY.

One sensible father we know has in part solved the problem of a proper rearing of his family of bright boys and girls by seeing to it that a reasonable portion of their time after school and in vacation is occupied with work or occupation of some sort. Although he lives near a popular summer resort, where for a number of years he has owned a commodious cottage, he has sold this because it is not possible for him to be with his children. Although engaged in clerical work, he has secured a dairy of five cows and helps his boys do the milking. They peddle the milk and keep track of the expense. During the past month their revenue from this source was $1.50 per day. In addition to the dairy, the youngsters tend a good sized garden patch, from which they sell vegetables, and thus add to their bank accounts. They also have the care of some sixty odd hens and two or three times as many little chickens. This business they also keep track of and know just what it brings in. Of course just now it would be easier for these parents to be free from the responsibility of overseeing the various activities in which their children are engaged, but they have figured it out—and rightly, we should say—that the exercise of a measure of pains and patience now is going to relieve them of the necessity, in part at least, of lying awake nights later on. Young people—boys and girls—have about so much energy and animal spirits to work off, and if they do not find a channel for expressing this energy wholesomely it is more than likely that they will do so in ways that are disastrous to themselves and fraught with a large measure of anxiety for their parents. Too much emphasis can hardly be placed upon the value of a judicious amount of work and recreative occupation for young people between the ages of eight and eighteen. If allowed to run loose during these years, they suffer a loss and are subjected to a handicap from which they cannot escape in all the remaining years of life.

SOWING ALFALFA.

If any readers of this department are planning to sow alfalfa for the first time this year, a few suggestions may not be out of place. Owing to the fact that the alfalfa seems to flourish best in semiarid portions of the country the land selected for the patch should be well drained as well as rich and mellow. A good deal has been said in the past few years about treating the seed with nitrocultures, and a number of firms have made big money retailing stuff that went by that name that had no more virtue than so much sawdust. Consensus of opinion seems to be that there may be some advantage if the land to be sown can be sprinkled just before the seed is harrowed in with soil from an established alfalfa field or from ground where sweet clover has grown, but just as valuable as this is giving the land a thorough dressing of barnyard manure and putting it in the best possible tilth. It should be prepared as if for a bumper crop of corn and the seed sown as soon as possible after getting the land in shape, about Aug. 15. Alfalfa seed, which will cost about as much as red clover seed, should only be bought of a firm of known reliability or from a house recommended by one's state experiment station. About fifteen pounds should be sown to the acre, immediately following a rain if possible, so as to insure quick germination. In localities where grasshoppers are numerous it is the verdict of experience that it is of no use to sow the seed at all unless poultry have free range of the farm, as the grasshopper will pounce on the young plants by the time they get into the second or third leaf and devour them utterly. A field of alfalfa will furnish an ideal ration for all kinds of farm animals, which eat it with a relish, while cured as hay it has a feeding value equal pound for pound to bran.

Natural history students of the country are agreed that unless effective measures are soon taken for its preservation the wood duck, perhaps the most beautiful of American game birds, will soon be extinct, like the buffalo. The fact noted is attributable to the rapid destruction of the forests and wood lots of the country, the native haunts of this bird, and the further fact that there are now few quiet lakes and streams which it may frequent free from disturbance from man.

When one is engaged in work near or in the timber, which is a favorite roosting place for the mosquito, and can't afford to spend a good share of his time pawing the air, an effective protection for the face and neck may be made by sewing a strip of mosquito netting about fifteen inches wide to the under side of the straw hat in a circle about two or three inches from the crown. The netting should lap five inches. When desired the netting in front of the face may be lifted, the temples, neck and cheeks still being covered. When a mosquito gets inside this net inclosure, his one concern seems to be to get out. He does not seem to be looking for anything to eat.

Referring to the complaints that are frequently to be heard about bad roads, the Easton Free Press says: "People who complain of bad country roads and washouts not repaired, should remember that the constable in that section can remedy the matter by reporting the nuisance to the court. But how many constables remember the duty they take an oath to perform in the interest of the public generally. Securing fees for the arrest of individuals appear to be the only thing looked after in their respective districts."

Emma Roof, master of Iona Grange, says: "Iona has 146 members, has taken in 12 during the past three months and has ten applications on hand. The lecturer has a regular program for each meeting. At the close of literary hour of last meeting they discused the question of saving, raising and marketing buckwheat. The lecturer's program is the most interesting part of the program, there is no lack of entertainment at the grange meetings." We are pleased to note the foregoing because it shows what earnest effort wil do in a very short time. The new hall, large attendance and no lack of entertainment shows a striking contrast when compared with conditions a few years ago. The master may well be proud of her position.

The secretary, Miss Lena D. Kennedy, of Troy Grange reports 297, the lecturer prepares programs for nearly every meeting, has taken in 15 members during the past three months. The following question was discussed at the last meeting: "Has any one had experience in feeding hay to cows this time of year." Most of the members thought it not a good plan to feed hay in summer and that it would be better to feed grain or grass. Many of our members do not take part in the programs.

D. O' Sullivan, lecturer of Overshot Grange, which is the smallest in Pomona district, No. 23, says: "Have a membership of only 16. Our district schools should be opened. The farmers pay the school tax. Let our small children be taught as near home as posible. Do away with township district lines so far as school houses are concerned. Move or build school houses in the most convenient places to accommodate all. No transportation for us. A school inside of two miles and we will take our children there. The most entertaining part of our grange exercises is the discussions of schools, roads, dairying and farming. The most of our members insured in the grange fire insurance company."

Mrs. J. S. Mott of Towanda Valley Grange reports one addition during the past three months; program prepared from week to week, prospective flora's meeting; an effort to get a corn or potato contest. I think the most interesting part of the grange exercises are ice cream and cake and the discussion of questions appertaining to the farm and home. Our attendance is not very large and is composed mostly of the young people who need much to encourage them to take an active part in grange work.

Mrs. Arvilla E. Carner of Overton Grange reports a membership of 57; the lecturer generally gives out some extra work; the most entertaining part of the exercises is questions, discussions and recitations. At last meeting discussed the question: "What has the Legislature done for the grange platform?" This was followed by taking up the work of the legislature in general. It is difficult to get the members to take part in literary work.

J. C. Greening, secretary of Ulster grange says there are no young people in their grange and that the principal interest is in the insurance. The membership is 83. Wishes a good speaker.

L. M. Pratt of Union Grange reports an addition of 15 and a membership of 193.

Lloyd Carpenter of Grange No. 111, reports 118 members. "The social feature of the grange is the most entertaining. At this busy season of the year attendance small."

During the harvest season when crops are belated as they are this year, it is not expected that there will be a turn out at the grange meetings so large as at other times of the year when there is not so much to be done in order to secure crops. We are pleased with the eight reports received during the past three days and expect the remaining thirty to be received within a few days to be equally as good.

The next quarterly session of Pomona Grange, No. 23, will be held with Eastern Bradford Grange at LeRaysville, August 23 and 24; opening Friday at 10 o'clock a. m. NOTICE.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA —DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH.
Harrisburg, Pa., July 25, 1907.

ADDITIONAL RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE REPORT OF COMMUNICABLE DISEASES.

In order to carry out the provisions of the Act of Assembly of April twenty-seven, one thousand nine hundred and five, entitled, "An Act creating a Department of health and defining its powers and duties," the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has adopted the following additional Rules and Regulations governing the control of Communicable Diseases.

RESOLVED: That Section 1 of the Rules and Regulations as published in Circular No. 1 which reads as follows:

"All physicians practicing within the limits of the State shall make an immediate report of every case occurring in their practice of the diseases hereinafter specified, if occurring in a city or borough, to the Secretary of the Board of Health of such city or borough, and if occurring within the limits of a township, to the County Medical Inspector of the county in which said township may be located and also to the Department of Health at Harrisburg," be amended to read as follows:

All the physicians practicing within the limits of the State shall make an immediate report of every case occurring in their practice of the diseases hereinafter specified, if occurring in a city or borough, to the Secretary of the Board of Health, Bureau of Health or Sanitary Committee of such city or borough, and if occurring within the limits of a township, to the Health Officer in charge of the township in which said patient may be located.

PROVIDED, that in any city or borough not having a Board or Bureau of Health or Sanitary Committee, the report of such cases occurring within the limits of said city or borough shall be made directly to the Department of Health, and PROVIDED, further that when a vacancy shall be known to exist in the position of Health Officer in any township, the reports of such cases occurring within the limits of such township shall be made directly to the State Department of Health.

RESOLVED: That physicians or others in charge of hospitals situated in cities or boroughs shall report cases hereinaffter specified occurring in cities and boroughs to the respective local Boards or Bureaus of Health or Sanitary Committees of such cities or boroughs, daily and report all such cases of communicable disease received from territory outside of cities or boroughs to the State Deparrment of Health at Harrisburg at the end of each week.

PROVIDED, that in any city or borough not having a Board of Health or Bureau of Health or Sanitary Committee, the report of such cases occurring within the limits of said city or borough shall be made directly to the Department of Health.

RESOLVED: That physicians or others in charge of hospitals situate in the respective townships outside of cities and boroughs shall report cases of the diseases hereinafter specified received from cities and boroughs to the respective local health authorities of the cities and boroughs from which the cases are taken, daily provided that where said city or borough has no Board of Health, Bureau of Health or Sanitary Committee, the report of such cases shall be made directly to the Department of Health, and shall report all such cases received from the townships outside of cities and boroughs to the State Department of Health at Harrisburg, at the end of each week.

RESOLVED: That when none of the diseases hereinfater enumerated occurs in a city or borough during any calendar month, a report of this fact shall be made by the Secretary of the Board or Bureau of Health or Sanitary Committe at the end of such month to the Department of Health at Harrisburg on the report cards supplied for this purpose.

RESOLVED: That the quarantine period for cases of scarlet fever shall be 30 days from the date of onset of the disease, provided that at the end of said period the physician in charge certifies in writing that desquamation has entirely and absolutely ceased.

TO BRIDGE BUILDERS.

Sealed proposals, endorsed with the title of the work to which they relate and the name and residence of the proposer, will be received by the

at the office of said Board, in the Court House, Towanda, Pa., at 2 o'clock p. m., Thursday, August 15, 1907, for building a highway bridge between North Towanda and Wysox Townships, at the end of James Street in North Towanda Township, Bradford County, Pa., in strict accordance with the plans and specifications, etc., on file in the office of said Commissioners.

Bidders must satisfy themselves by careful personal examination of the site of the structure, condition of the stream, foundations, erection over tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, etc., of the work to be bid on and constructed.

Bidders must include in their proposal the supply of all material and labor of every kind necessary for the completion of the entire construction ready for public travel of this bridge, with the exception of the back filling and grading of the abutments.

Bids must be accompanied by a properly certified check in the sum of 10 per cent. of the amount of the bid, and made payable to the County Commissioners of Bradford County, Pa., which will be returned to the bidder unless forfeited as hereinafter provided. This check will be deposited with the Clerk of the County Commissioners in a separate open envelope for the examination by the proper County Official, at 10 o'clock a. m., Thursday, August 15, 1907.

Each bid must be signed by the bidder with the full name and address and placed in a separate sealed envelope, endorsed in plainly written words "Proposals for Highway Bridge Between North Towanda and Wysox Townships, at the End of James Street, North Towanda, Pa."

No bid will be allowed to be withdrawn after it is once deposited.

Bids received after the time set for their opening will not be considered.

All bids must be on blank forms obtained on application from the Clerk of the County Commissioners, and the prices of the bid must be stated in both words and figures, and all bids which are not in conformity with this notice will be rejected.

A bond will be required for the faithful performance of this contract in an amount equal to the contract price. The sureties of said bond shall be some Surety or Trust Company of Pennsylvania, or satisfactory individual surety by citizens of Pennsylvania, to be approved by the Board of Commissioners and their Attorney.

The contract must be signed and the bond furnished within ten (10) days (Sunday excepted) after the date of the notification by the Board of the acceptance of the proposal; and in case of failure of the successful bidder to execute the contract and to furnish the bond within said time, his proposal will be considered abandoned and the certified check deposited with the County Commissioners shall be forfeited the County of Bradford, State of Pennsylvania.

The Commissioners of Bradford County reserve the right to reject any and all bids should they deem it advisable to do so.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Such a little sack as this one belongs in every infant's outfit. It can be slipped on at a moment's notice and often means just the additional warmth that is needed for the time. The material is a pretty French flannel, and the edges are simply scalloped with heavy embroidery silk, but revers can be attached to the fronts, and the collar can be used or omitted, while there is a choice of tucked sleeves or those that can be gathered into bands. Pique, lightweight flannel, cashmere, henrietta and materials of the sort are appropriate, while there are some charming little sacks made of india silk lined with albatross. The scallops illustrated are charming. Hems finished with fancy stitching are always pretty, but still more elaborate embroidery can be worked about the edges.

The little sack is made with fronts and back. The front edges can be cut square and hemmed or square, with revers attached and turned back, or they can be rounded at their lower edges. The sleeves are moderately full and when tucked are finished at their lower edges; when gathered are joined to bands.

The quantity of material required for the medium size (1 year) is 1⅝ yards 27, 1¼ yards 32 or seven-eighths of a yard 44 inches wide.

Sizes for children of 6 months and 1 and 2 years.

A BUSINESS PARABLE.

You Cannot Fail to Appreciate the Point in This Story.

Once a farmer had 1,800 bushels of wheat, which he sold not to a single grain merchant, but to 1,800 different dealers, a bushel each. A few of them paid him in cash, but far the greater number said it was not convenient then; they would pay later. A few months passed and the man's bank account ran low. "How is this?" he said, "My 1,800 bushels of grain should have kept me in affluence until another crop is raised, but I have parted with the grain and have only a vast number of accounts, so small and scattered that I cannot get around and collect fast enough to pay expenses."

So he posted up a public notice and quickly. But few came. The rest said: "Mine is only a small matter, and I will go and pay one of these days," forgetting that, though each account was very small, when all were put together they meant a large sum to the man. Things went on thus. The man got to feeling so bad that he fell out of bed and awoke and, running to his granary, found his 1,800 bushels of wheat still safe there. He had only been dreaming.

Moral.—The next day the man went to the publisher of his paper and said: "Here, sir, is the pay for your paper, and when next year's subscription is due you can depend on me to pay it promptly. I stood in the position of an editor last night, and I know how it feels to have one's honestly earned money scattered all over the country in small amounts."—Exchange.

MINE FATALITIES FOR LAST YEAR

State Department Makes Public Annual Report on Colliery Accidents.

The latest annual report of the State department of mines shows that there were 52 employes killed between the ages of 16 and 18 years of age, and 74 employes between the ages of 18 and 21 years, in the anthracite and bituminous regions of Pennsylvania, during the year 1906.

In addition to these fatalities, there were killed outside of the anthracite mines, 16 boys between the ages of 16 and 21 years. In the bituminous region, no fatalities occurred among the outside employes under 21 years of age.

In the bituminous mines, 26 boys were killed, whose ages ranged from 14 to 18 years, and 37 kiled or fatally injured, between the ages of 18 and 21.

The report states that it is a regretable fact that three of the so-called miners killed were boys 14, 15 and 16 years of age, respectively, and that the foreman who hired these boys to do a miner's work should be sentenced to a term of imprisonment.

LOST ARM IN SAW MILL.

Resident of Ricketts Fell Upon a Circular Saw While at Work.

George Coma, a foreigner, 24 years of age, residing at Ricketts, Sullivan county, was admitted to the Mercy hospital Friday suffering from a badly lacerated arm.

Coma was employed as a laborer around the saw mill, and was pushing a heavy piece of timber up to the circular saw, when he lost his balance and fell upon the rapidly-revolving saw, which lacerated his left arm so badly that it was necessary for the hospital physicians to amputate the injured member below the elbow.

The Prize Winners.

Wellsboro firemen captured four prizes at the Galeton convention last week, taking without a contest, the hose, hub and hub, and hook and ladder races. The Wellsboro military band won the prize in the band contest, all other bands withdrawing. The prize drill was won by the C. L. Pattison Hose company of Elkland. The Cross Fork Hose company was awarded the $25 prize for the best appearing company in line and the Emerald Hook and Ladder company of Wellsville the prize of $25 for the best appearing company in line not belonging to the association.

Tramping for Pleasure.

Professor L. J. Smalley, principal of the High school at Lafayette, Ind., breakfasted a few mornings ago with some newspaper men camping along the river near Tunkhannock. The professor is tramping for health, pleasure and experience and has been down through Virginia, Maryland and at Washington; swinging back to Philadelphia, New Jersey and around through this section. He goes alone, visiting people whom he falls in with, and has been on the road about six weeks.—Tunkhannock Republican.

McCarrell a Candidate for Judge.

S. J. McCarrell of Harrisburg, United States district attorney and district counsel for the State and Dairy Food bureau, has addressed a letter to members of the Dauphin County Republican committee asking their support for his candidacy for the nomination of the additional law judgeship of Dauphin county, made vacant by the death of Judge Thomas H. Capp recently.

Cornell Hall Opening.

C. O. White and J. B. Walsh, two well known Towanda young men, have leased the hall in the Foster block known as Mantua hall, changed the name to "Cornell Hall," and will open it for dancing parties and social gatherings. The lessees will hold an opening dance on Friday evening, Aug. 16, and have engaged Clancy's orchestra to furnish music for the occasion.

HOFFERT A FOOTPAD

Former Resident of Towanda in Serious Trouble at Scranton

HAS CONFESSED HIS CRIMES.

Leo Hoffert of this Borough, and Albert Butler of Chicago, According to Their Own Stories Are the Men Who Have Terrorized Scranton.

By the arrest of two men who gave their names as Leo Hoffert of Towanda, alias "Bob" Williams of St. Louis, and Albert Butler of Chicago, at 1 o'clock Thursday morning at Bull's head, North Scranton, Superintendent of Police Lona B. Day of that city, is positive that the police have the two footpads whose midnight exploits the past few weeks have startled the residents of Scranton and have left the police on edge. The hold-ups and arrest of the two men form a part of the most daring and sensational work in Scranton police history. An unusual feature of the arrest and identification of the highwaymen is that by their own stories they have fastened the many crimes upon themselves.

Arrest of the Men.

The Scranton Truth gives the following account of the arrest and confessions of the men:

"Their arrest Thursday morning was the culmination of a systematic hunt to run them down. Every available man including Superintendent Day, 16 in all, were in plain clothes from 11 o'clock to 2 o'clock, intent on bagging the footpads. Strangely enough, it was a patrolman in full uniform who landed the pair, and in the most unexpetced way.

"It was an interesting as well as a desperate hunt that was made for the 'stick men.' The 16 plain clothes men set out with the idea of being held up, hoping that they would prove a bait for the footpads. As they traversed the sections of the city which were considered the most likely field of operations, every man had his hand in his coat pocket, clutching his revolver. At the command to throw up his hands from the footpad, the policeman was to shoot through his coat pocket.

"But this was not necessary. About 1 o'clock Patrolman Smith came upon the pair who were acting somewhat suspiciously about the meat market of George Lesaius, at Wood street and Providence road. As every patrolman had been instructed to arrest every suspicious character, Smith came upon the men without being seen, and, flashing his revolver in their faces, he took out of them all possible fight. When covered they were peering into the front windows of the store, and their excuse was that they were waiting for some girls with whom they had an appointment to go to Dunmore, and while waiting they were looking at the show bills in the window."

Their Confessions.

"To Superintendent of Police Lona B. Day, the pair told in detail their connection with all the hair-raising exploits on the city's streets in the lonely hours of the early morning, the past month or more. It was no third degree process that led the men to reveal themselves to the police. One was called in after the other to the superintendent's office where the superintendent had a frank talk with them in which he advised them that in the face of the evidence which the police had already secured it would be more prudent for them to make a clean breast of the whole business.

"Hoffert was the first to tell his story and it took him about three hours to do it. He was considerably broken up over his arrest. There was more or less surprise when the revelations in the case showed that the men were not the professional workers that their exploits within a block of police headquarters, indicated. Hoffert or Williams was fresh from a farm at Towanda and didn't know much of the city, though LaBlue or Butler appears to be an indifferent and reckless spirit. He is no talker and maintained an absolute silence to his life before coming to Scranton.

Mask Was Found.

"Hoffert or Williams said that he and his partner had been lodging at the home of Mrs. Donohue, over the Arrow on Spruce street. Superintendent Day immediately sent a detail there to search their rooms with the result that several masks and a checked cap, the particular one described by all the victims as being worn by one of the footpads, where found. When these were shown to Hoffert it was a means of his freely telling all he knew. He said that he and Butler, as he knew him, had worked here for about a year, having been employed among other places as porters at the Scranton House. Hoffert said that he, himself, had worked at the Jermyn and at the Scheuer bakery.

"While he looks less the criminal than LaBlue, Hoffert admitted that he was responsible for the first hold-up. This was on the night of July 21, when at the point of a revolver he held up a man named Baker from Dalton, on Delaware street and took from him $16 and an old English coin.

"'Have you far to go?' Williams asked his victim, and he replied that he had.

"'Well, here is a dollar for you,' and he handed him one. "Now git," he admonished.

"Baker, when he reported the hold-up to the police, admitted that the robber had given him a dollar, with which to get home.

"The next hold-up which Hoffert confessed was that of F. P. Hamilton, manager of the Dunmore and Moosic Lake railroad, at Quincy avenue and Mulberry street, and which occurred about midnight. La Blue held the revolver in this case and Hoffert had the sandbag which was found on him after his arrest, but he did not use it. Sixty cents was all that was gotten from Mr. Hamilton, as the latter told him they could get his loose change, but they would have their own troubles searching him, and were content with the 60 cents. Hamilton at the time had about $600 in bills and checks on his person.

Other Hold-Ups.

"After this the pair worked together. On the night of July 27, they held up George T. Palmer of 1519 Electric avenue, on Adams avenue, between Green Ridge street and Marion street, securing $5.25 from him. One of the surprises of the confession was in the next admission. Hoffert said that they held up the actor, John Snyder, of Paterson, N. J., on the 500 block on Adams avenue, early in the morning of July 31, and secured only 35 cents from him. Snyder claimed that over $16 was taken from him. This is the only case in which there is any difference between the story of the men and the cases as reported by their victims. Hoffert claims his story about the money obtained from the actor is absolutely correct.

"The same night they tried to hold up Stephen Malven, on Vine street, near the Albright library, who was on his way to his room in the Young Men's Christian association building. Malven was game, they said, and said something about knocking their heads off. He made a pass at one of them and then darted down the alley, while they beat a hasty retreat up Vine street to run into the Paterson actor, whom they claimed had only 35 cents to part with. La Blue followed Hoffert, but he had less to say and appeared quite indifferent. Both men were committed to jail without bail to await the action of the next grand jury.

Hoffert Never Arrested Here.

Leo Hoffert, while a resident of Towanda bore a fairly good reputation. He worked as porter at the Ward House for a time, leaving here about 13 months ago. He was never arrested here and was practically unknown to the police. He comes from a very respectable family, and but for his confession, his friends and acquaintances in this vicinity would be loath to believe him in any way connected with the many crimes of which he is accused.

BURGLARS ROUTED BY AN 8-YEAR-OLD GIRL.

Alone in House She Fires Two Shots at the Would Be Robbers.

Alone in the house with her five-year-old brother and baby sister at midnight, when her father and mother were away from home, Martha, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Reich of Mausdale, near Bloomsburg, routed two burglars who were trying to get in the front door.

Getting her father's revolver she fired twice through the door, and while she did not hit either, she frightened them to the extent that they lost no time in getting away.

A Good Newspaper.

With last week's issue the Tunkhannock Republican-New Age starts on its 39th year of publication. The Republican was established in 1866 and was consolidated with the New Age in 1903. The paper has been owned by several parties and is now the property of Lyman Brothers, who as editors and publishers have been very successful, they being recognized as two of the best and ablest newspaper men in Northern Pennsylvania. The Republican-New Age is a model weekly paper, brimful of good reading matter each week, with a full news report of the doings in Tunkhannock and Wyoming county. Lyman Brothers say they are not yet satisfied with the paper, that they are aiming to make it better, but as it is they can be justly proud of their paper, as can every citizen of Tunkhannock and Wyoming county who has a pride in home enterprises.

PATIENCE and HOPE

HOPE

It is not reasonable to assume that any chronic malady—even though attended by no dangerous symptoms—can be cured at once. And any preparation said to do this may well be distrusted. But it is the experience of intelligent people all over the land for over 30 years, that a persevering use of according to directions, will soon relieve and ultimately cure cases of Fever and Ague, Biliousness, Rheumatism, Debility of the Stomach, Bowels, Kidneys and Bladder, and all disorders arising from an impure state of the Blood, when no other medicine or treatment has been of any permanent benefit. Sufferers may properly be reminded that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is no speculative preparation, placed upon the market to fill the pockets of a proprietor who is ignorant of the first principles of medicine, but a prescription used with uniform success by Dr. Kennedy long before he ever dreamed of making it public.

TO CROSS BATS AGAIN

Towanda and Ulster Will Play a Series of Five Games.

GREAT BASEBALL PROMISED.

Managers of the Rival Clubs Meet in Towanda on Tuesday and Arrangements Were Made for Deciding the Supremacy of the Diamond.

Towanda and Ulster will cross bats again. The base ball warriors of the county seat and the beautiful little village up the river will meet in battle royal and decide once and for all times this year the supremacy of the diamond in Bradford county. Manager Russell of Towanda, and Manager McQueen of Ulster, met in Towanda Tuesday afternoon, and it only required a few minutes to arrange a series of five games to be played by the two teams to decide the much mooted question of which town has the fastest bunch of ball players.

It will be remembered that after the game in Towanda last week Wednesday when Ulster was shut out and lost the game to Towanda by forfeiture, they refusing to abide by the umpire's decisions, Ulster issued a challenge to play Towanda again. Manager Russell took up the defi, and the meeting between the two managers Tuesday afternoon was the result of the challenge.

The agreement between the two clubs calls for playing of five games, two in Ulster, two in Towanda, and the fifth will be decided by the tossing of a coin. The first game will be played the coming Saturday at Ulster, the second on Wednesday, Aug. 14, at Towanda, the third on Friday, Aug. 16 at Ulster, and the fourth will be played here on Aug. 21. Where the fifth and last game of the series will be played will be decided after the game in Towanda on Aug. 21. Eugene D. Means was agreed upon as the umpire for the games in Towanda, and Grant Holcomb will officiate in a like capacity during the games in Ulster.

The players will be selected from the following list of names: Towanda—Connor, Keagle, Northrop, Ryan, Turner, Bazette, Dunfee, Weaver, McFarlane, Kline, Cronk, Russell, Corbett and Doud. Ulster—Cranmer, F. Davidson, Morrison, F. McQueen, H. Matthews, E. McQueen, Lewis, Horton, Childs, Arnold, Farrell, Mallory, G. Matthews, and Maloney.

Both of the games in Towanda will be played on Wednesday, which will insure a large attendance, as business men and others can get away to attend better than on Friday or Saturdays. The intense rivalry and the unsatisfactory ending of the game last week will also have a tendency to bring out large crowds.

Both teams will play their best to win, and some real fast, gingerly games can be looked for.

SUMMONED WRONG MAN.

Lycoming County Man Wants New Trial—Unusual Occurrence.

A. D. Foucart, who at the June term of Lycoming county court was convicted on a charge of assault and battery, has asked for a new trial and among the reasons assigned is that the wrong man served as a juror in the trial of the case, says the Williamsport Sun.

He asserts that among the petit jurors, according to the official and published list, was the name of "Harry Miller, machinist, First precinct of Clinton township," but that no person corresponding to said description served; that Harry Miller, a resident of the Second precinct of Clinton township, who is by occupation a woodsman, did serve as a juror at said term of court; "that affiant, relying upon the official list of juorors as printed and published for his information, accepted Harry Miller, machinist, First precinct, Clinton township, as a juror by whom he would be tried but that affiant discovered after trial and verdict, and not until then, that he was misled as to the identity of the Harry Miller who sat on the jury by which he was tried."

He claims that the error was caused by the sheriff summoning the wrong Harry Miller.

STATE LOSES MONEY BY NEW TAX STATUTE.

Moore Tax, Levying on Trust Company Stock, Means Reduction.

State fiscal officers have just come to realize that the new law taxing stock of trust companies causes a big reduction of state revenues. They estimate that the state loses $250,000, which it received under the old law, and it is generally said that when this act was pending in the legislature it was not generally known that it would reduce the state's revenues. Had this been known in time it is doubtful if it would have been passed or signed by the governor.

Under this new statute, known as the Moore act, trust companies are liable for taxation of five mills annually on the book value of their stock, ascertained by adding together the capital, surplus and undivided profits. They are entitled to exemption from tax on capital, surplus and profits represented by investments in stock of other corporations doing business in this state and paying a tax on capital stock.

By the old act under which trust companies has heretofore been taxed, they were required to pay a tax of five mills on the actual value of the shares based on the average price at which the stock sold during the previous year.

The new act is intended to place trust companies on a par with banks which are taxed on the book value of their stock at the rate of four mills annually. Trust companies are taxed at five mills in view of the fact that they are given larger privileges in their charters.

The larger trust companies whose stock is dealt in or sold at action, in the larger cities, are the ones which will be the gainers under the new act. The smaller trust companies are required to pay practically the same tax, it having been the practice of the auditor general's department to take the book value of the stock of all trust companies as the minimum basis for the purpose of taxation.

A letter of instruction is being sent out with the blanks for report, in which Auditor General Young suggests that all the information asked for he furnished as soon as convenient and in precise language, so that the tax can be equitably adjusted.

Trust companies are required to give definite information as to their holdings of stock of corporations, naming the kind of shares, whether common or preferred, the par value of each and for how long a period they are owned.

Under the provisions of the new act, trust companies are given the option of paying a tax on or before March 1, in each year, in order to be entitled to exemption from local taxation on the value of their shares, surplus and profits. A provision in the act makes the deposits of trust companies exempt from taxation, if the tax is paid on or before March 1, something new in the way of taxation.

RE-MARRIED AFTER 28 YEARS.

Pretty Little Romance Ends in Happiness for Estranged Couple.

A news dispatch from Ithaca says: "Re-married after a separation of 28 years is the record just made by Col. E. S. Kellogg and Mrs. Elizabeth Roshing Kellogg Henry.

Col. Kellogg married Elizabeth Roshing of Trumansburg more than 30 years ago, but after a few years the couple were divorced. Both were married again, but in recent years the partner of each has died. Col. Kellogg, who went West after the divorce and eventually went to New York to live, recently visited his old home. The children of his first marriage brought about a meeting and a reconcilation with his first wife and their re-marriage has now resulted.
